California's Public Schools.
Wasting on Gunpowder.
Not Another War, Please.
The Biggest Pumpkin Vine.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES Nov. 30.

CALIFORNIA IS honored by its supremacy in public school education from the lowest grade to the state university.

The British Governor who thanked God there was no public school in Virginia and hoped there would be none for 100 years to come, would be horrified at California's school system.

FORMERLY IN every town and city, the finest building was the residence of some dignitary, the next in grandeur was the public prison, usually.

In modern California and many other states, to their honor, the public schools surpass in beauty and importance all other buildings.

High schools here are surrounded by beautiful parks; each public school has its athletic field.

In California EVERY CHILD must be educated at public expense.

MR. WHITNEY, secretary of the Barstow School Board, was discussing, yesterday, the case of an unfortunate child, crippled by infantile paralysis, unable to walk up the steps of any school. Must such a child go without education or be educated at its parents' expense?

Not in California.

A teacher will be appointed to attend solely to that child's education in its own home and the cost of books and teacher will be divided between the county and the state.

That will make some taxpayers roar "Bolshevism," but it must make the angels smile if they ever do smile.

AND MORE Bolshevism. Barstow, a small town on the Mojave Desert, spends $51,000 a year for public education, more than for all other purposes combined, and sends school buses as far as 52 miles, bringing children at public expense to the high school, 104 miles every day for the round trip.

That costs the taxpayers for every child more than $100 a year extra.

EVERY LITTLE million helps. In the government's economy campaign, any economy suggestion that does not mean discharging men should be especially welcome. Therefore this column suggests that the government cease spending nearly a million a year on foolish Army and Navy salutes that use up nearly $1,000,000 worth of gunpowder.

The 8th Army Corps headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., calculates that the Army spends $315,000 a year for gunpowder, to salute "important personages" and to salute the flag at sunrise and sunset every day, not counting wear and tear on equipment.

THE FLAG would be just as happy if a bugler played "Home Sweet Home," or "The Star Spangled Banner," softly, and fewer citizens that pay for gunpowder in Texas would be waked from their sleep.

The Navy spends for wasted powder as much as the Army, and perhaps more, since bigger cannon call for bigger charges.

The money thus absolutely wasted could drain each year many acres of swamp lands, discourage mosquitos, cut down malaria and other diseases. Children and savages love noise for its own sake, but a great government should find other delights. Some Congressman might look into that.

SENATOR HIRAM Johnson's demand that all correspondence of our State Department concerning the Japan-China row be made public is welcome.

It should make excellent comic reading.

Who made this country Asia's guardian, or protector-in-chief of poor "little" China, with only 400,000,000 population?

Is there a nigger in the woodpile, in the shape of British or American mining interests, using the United States to keep Japan away from valuable property?

WHY ALL the nonsense? Why must we read lectures to Japan about keeping her word concerning China? We have not finished paying for our last war by more than $20,000,000,000, and we have a fair-sized national deficit on our hands.

It is safe to predict that President Hoover will not let anybody push us into a new war, before we finish digesting the last.

THE "REGULAR American boy" who has examined pumpkin vines in his father's corn field before frost, musing on Thanksgiving pumpkin pie, remembers a vine, a few yards long, with perhaps as many as 10 greenish yellow pumpkins attached.

J. R. Plummer, of Winchester, O., had this fall a pumpkin vine 1,500 feet long, that produced a big wagonload of pumpkins.

It covered the entire garden, was three and a half inches thick, climbed a cherry tree, covered part of a high fence and spread over an adjoining field.

GOOD SOIL and fertilizer explain that.

There is no need to worry about surplus population, for the next thousand years.

Texas alone, with intensive cultivation, could feed easily all the 18 or 19 hundred million people on earth, and have room left for more oil wells.

THE NIZAM of Hyderabad recently married his two sons to the niece and daughter of the ex-caliph, Abdul Mejid Effendi, successor to Mohammed, head of all Mohammedans.

The custom of buying wives was observed, and the ex-caliph

DAVIS DARE JUST BLUFF, GOVERNOR ASSERTS

Challenge to Donate All Fantastic, Governor States, Offering Fourth of Income

Davis Says Barnum Had Way Out, Too

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, had but one sentence to say today in response to the offer of Gov. Pinchot to match the Senator in giving a quarter of his gross income for this year to unemployment relief. He remarked:

"P. T. Barnum, the master showman, also always had a way out."

The Senator had proposed that he and the Pennsylvania Governor give their entire salaries for relief.

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today swung a hard verbal uppercut in the fourth round of his "I dare you" sparring match with Senator James J. Davis by announcing that one-fourth of his 1930 gross income of $52,650.46 would be contributed to the relief of unemployment distress. The Governor said his net income was $37,139.49.

At the same time the Executive declared that Senator Davis' proposal that each man contribute his entire income, and that of his wife, to charity was "fantastic and obviously not in good faith."

CLOSES DISPUTE

The Governor's 1930 income does not include any portion of his $18,000 gubernatorial salary, since he did not take office until January of this year. His salary as Governor is exempt from federal income tax. His 1931 gross income therefore will approximate $70,000, which indicates a contribution of approximately $17,500 to relief, provided his 1931 income from sources other than his salary as Governor is not less than it was in 1930.

The income he named does not include any income accruing to his wife, Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, reputed wealthier than her husband.

The Governor's comment today, it was indicated, closes his interchange with Senator Davis as far as the Governor is concerned.

Last week the Governor "dared" Davis to make as large a contribution to unemployment relief as he, Governor, contemplated. Davis replied by offering to give the entire income of himself and Mrs. Davis, suggesting that Gov. Pinchot do likewise. The Senator also suggested income tax returns of both officials be made public in order that it would be made known whether each was giving the full amount.

FORMAL REPLY

The Governor's formal reply to the senator was:

"Senator Davis' reply to my proposal is fantastic and obviously not in good faith, and requires no further attention. Therefore, I proceed to do as I proposed without him.

"For 1930, the last year reported to the United States Treasury Department, my net income, upon which the federal income tax is figured was $37,139.49. My gross income was $52,650.46.

"My contributions to relief this year will amount to a quarter of my gross income for 1930. If my gross income in 1931 is larger than 1930, I will contribute one-quarter of that sum."

DRUNKEN DRY SHOOTS BOY

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—In the declining years of a life devoted to the cause of prohibition and public order, Daniel L. Gilday, 65, sat in a barren jail cell today held without bond on a charge of having shot a 17-year-old boy in a frenzy of drunkenness.

Just a few blocks away from the jail in the Englewood Hospital lay the victim, Herman Knol, a model youth who was trying to be a good samaritan to Gilday when a bullet from the veteran reformer's gun pierced his abdomen.

KLINE CUTS BUDGET BY $1,931,337

Means Slash of Half Mill On Land, ¼ on Buildings; Short of Owners' Demand

Estimates of municipal expenditures for 1932 sent by Mayor Kline to Council this afternoon show a reduction of $1,931,337 compared with the current year's appropriations.

This represents a cut in taxes of one-half mill on land and one-fourth mill on buildings, only a fraction of the reduction advocated by the Building Owners and Managers Association and other civic bodies.

The 1932 budget, as presented, calls for $27,039,789. Adjusted 1931 appropriations totaled $28,971,126.

WORKS CUT HEAVIEST

The Public Works Department made the heaviest cut, slashing $1,276,355 in salaries, supplies and incidental expenses. The Bureau of Sanitation in the Department of Health, pared $248,272 from its current budget and the Department of Welfare, $379,479, of which $174,800 was cut from the Mayview establishment and $200,730 from the general office. The Police Bureau cuts aggregated $123,050.

A few increases were provided for the in the estimate, $125,646 for additional clerks in the Controller's office and $17,180 in the Department of Supplies.

MORE CUTS POSSIBLE

Mayor Kline in transmitting the budget, said:

"I transmit herewith the tentative budget estimates for the year 1932. These figures will require a tax levy on land of 25 mills, which is a reduction of one-half mill from the 1931 rate.

"It is possible to make further reductions, but due to the depression it is a matter of im-

REFUSES AID, GIVING LIFE FOR BABY

By CHARLES J. McGUIRK
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Miss May Gledhill, internationally famous Canadian aquatic athlete, lies in Nassau County Hospital at Mineola today, defying all efforts to save her life by oxygen from the death which she preferred and tried to inflict upon herself because two great governments threatened to seperate her from her year-old baby.

Her attempt at suicide in the home of the father of her child and his forgiving wife may be the last chapter in one of the strangest love tangles ever produced in New York.

William Cornor, the father of the child, is doing a five-year stretch in prison for forgery. He was sent there last fall and while he was on trial he brought Miss Gledhill into his home and introduced her to his wife, who is twice her age. The introductions over, Miss Gledhill threw back a light blanket from one end of a bundle she carried in her arms and revealed a sleeping child. Mrs. Cornor cooed.

"Oh, what a darling baby!"

Cornor nodded toward the girl and said:

"It's ours. Hers and mine."

TAKEN INTO HOME

Mrs. Cornor went white and then the color surged back into her face and she smiled again. She said simply:

"Good! Then they must live with us."

So the girl mother and the child moved into the home with the forgiving wife while Cornor began his sentence. They were all very happy together. They would have been today only someone told government agents that Miss Gledhill, the young mother, was unmarried, that the father of her baby was a convict and a felon. The unwieldly legal mills

CONNELLSVILLE BANKER JAILED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 30.—Linford F. Ruth, 73, former president of the now closed Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, today was sentenced to four years in the county jail and to pay a $5,000 fine in addition to cost approximating $1,000.

He was found guilty of misapplying $60,000 of the bank's money.

The state charged that Ruth now a resident of Washington loaned the money illegally to the Waynesburg Coal Company, of which he also was president.

The aged banker pleaded no defense to seven other charges involving misapplication of an additional $100,000.

His attorney indicated that due to financial reverses Ruth would not appeal the case to higher courts.

He was taken from the courtroom directly to the jail to start serving his sentence.

Tom Mix Improves, Recovery Hoped For

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The condition of Tom Mix, screen and circus cowboy, showed signs of definite improvement today, although he was still in danger. His physicians expressed themselves as "very optimistic."

Mix is suffering from peritonitis, which developed from a ruptured appendix. He had a slight cold to contend with, but his physicians did not believed it would result in any complications.

Snow and Colder To Follow Showers

Light rain changing to snow as the mercury drops slightly was forecast by the Weather Bureau today. The lowest temperature tonight will be between 35 and 40, according to the official forecast.

Inaccuracies Laid To U. S. Officials By Tokio

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Nov. 30.—The Japanese War Office today took a hand in the controversy between Washington and Tokio over statements made by the American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson concerning Japanese policy in Manchuria.

Although the foreign office revoked its criticism of Stimson, holding that he had been incorrectly quoted by a Japanese news agency in declaring that the Japanese army had "run amuck," the war office charged that either Stimson or W. Cameron Forbes, United States ambassdor to Japan, had given out inaccurate accounts of Japanese military policy with respect to the status of Chinchow.

'NO PROMISE MADE'

The War Office declared that no promise had been made to Stimson, as was indicated by the State Department in Washington, that Japanese troops would not occupy Chinchow.

It was stated that the police in Manchuria was to refrain from

DREYFUSS MOVE UNEXPECTED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

George Gibson, former star catcher and manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, today was reappointed pilot of the local club, succeeding Jewel Ens, who was removed as skipper following the close of the 1931 pennant race.

Mentioned prominently among the prospects shortly after the release of Ens, Gibson's name apparently was discarded as others came into the picture. As a result the announcement of his appointment in the Pirates' headquarters in the Fraternity Building, Oakland, came somewhat as a surprise.

News that the new Pirate manager was to be announced officially this morning brought newspapermen and photographers to the club headquarters and a large crowd was on hand when Gibby made his appearance at 11:20.

Gibby's face immediately lit up in smiles as a dozen hands were extended toward him and Barney

Envoy Willys' Daughter Seeking Paris Divorce

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The former Virginia Clayton Willys, who was married in 1929 to Luis Mercelino de Aguirre, son of an Argentine cattle raiser, is seeking a divorce in Paris, her father, Ambassador John N. Willys, U. S. Ambassador to Poland, admitted today.

Ambassador Willys, on a furlough home from the Warsaw embassy, said:

"I saw Virginia in Berlin and she said she was going to seek the divorce. It is true I was not very keen about her marriage. I didn't think it would last. But she was determined. It was the only thing she ever refused me.

"Now it is just as well. Suppose I had insisted. She might have married someone else and not have liked him any better. I'd have been to blame and I'd have heard 'Luis' for a long time."

Mrs. Willys is with her daughter in Paris.

Backer of Snobs Tells Co-Eds They're 'Sloppy'

Dr. Robert Emmons Rogers, professor of English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who a couple of years ago issued his now famous advice to the young men of a graduating class to "be snobbish" and "marry the boss' daughter, not his stenographer," arrived in town today and delivered the following viewpoints:

"The girl who is a college graduate seldom has to use sex appeal in the business world.

"The college girl is inclined to be sloppy—the more educated she is, the sloppier she usually is.

"It is to the advantage of any girl—seeking a position or filling one—to be well groomed and attractive.

"As a general rule the man and woman who are not college graduates are more inclined to be careful of their personal appearance.

"The old-fashioned employer resents sloppiness in the appearance of his workers; the modern employer is reconciled to it."

Asked if he still believed the college boy's aim should be to marry his boss' daughter, Rogers said:

"I probably will never live down that speech, but I have found nothing to cause me to alter the statement."

"1—Curtainment of public service.

"2—Reduction in the number of city employes.

"3—Reduction of salaries of city employes.

"It is a serious matter with so much unemployment due to the world business depression as to how far the city should go at this time in these three matters.

"The city has endeavored through the furlough system to stagger the employment of city employes as an experiment which might guide us in the year 1932. The experiment has not been in effect long enough for me to give you any definite suggestions at this time.

"I invite the co-operation of Council and all the civic bodies and I will be glad to confer with you at any and all times on this very important matter."

The call of $1,931,337 in the budget is equivalent to a larger tax cut than indicated by the Mayor, but revenues enjoyed by the city this year will not be available in 1932, thus keeping the tax rate up. These revenues included a $375,000 garbage reserve and $500,000 bank deposit fund which was turned into the treasury when the bank depositors ordinance was passed.

WALKER AILING, PLANS TO PUSH MOONEY PLEA

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York City, suffering from a severe cold, was under the care of a physician today. But his condition was not serious and he felt confident he would be able to appear tomorrow at the public hearing before the governor of California to make a plea for a pardon for Tom Mooney.

Mayor Walker contracted a slight cold a few days ago and aggravated it Saturday by getting his feet wet as he was boarding the private yacht Bounce to pay a visit to Mooney at San Quentin prison.

Because of his illness, the Mayor was forced to cancel an engagement to speak last night at the First Baptist Church.

Shortly before he took to his bed Mayor Walker paid a visit to the scene of the preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1916 when 10 persons were killed and 40 injured. It is for alleged participation in this outrage that Mooney is serving a life sentence in San Quentin.

Mayor Walker's forthcoming plea for a pardon for Mooney has created considerable interest all over California and has drawn a barrage of criticism from press, pulpit and private individuals.

BABY GONE, GIRL TRIES TO DIE

of two great governments began to grind to reduce this erring woman to chaff.

The United States government, it became known Friday, would deport her as an undesirable alien. It was a blow. It meant leaving the United States in disgrace and returning to Canada with the scarlet letter burned upon her. But after all, Canada was home, the country in which she had spent her life. She would make the best of it.

Saturday, however, she learned that while the Canadian government would allow her to enter and live within the dominion, it banned her baby. Her first intimation came with the visit to the Elm street home of two immigration officials and an official of the Salvation Army. May saw them coming and intuitively knew the worst.

REFUSES DOCTOR'S AID

She ran to the bathroom, sobbing, and locked the door, and Mrs. Cornor went to the front door and opened it for them. Just as Mrs. Cornor greeted the visitors there was a sharp cry of pain behind the locked door and a thud. The four broke down the door and found the girl writhing and moaning in pain. She was rushed to the hospital.

There, when doctors had soothed her with opiates, they asked her what she had taken. She replied:

"I won't tell you. I would rather die than be parted from my baby."

From her hospital bed she said she had met Cornor several years ago when he was a consulting engineer in New York and she was a Canadian swimming champion, expert water polo player and "The Ski Girl," the beautiful woman who was the original of the advertising posters broadcast by the Canadian Pacific Railroad. They loved each other at sight, she said.

And in the Floral Park home the forgiving wife gave her version. She said:

"Long ago I have forgiven both my husband and Miss Gledhill. I've found since living with her here, that she is a charming person. We get along splendidly. I have grown to love her child as though it were my own. I raised one, you know, William, Jr., who lives here with us. But he's grown now and a woman always likes a baby around. I don't think it is right for the government to try to part them, but if it must be, I'll be glad to take care of the baby. I'll promise to give it as much love as though it were my own."

Wimberly drained the bottle, collected his bet and then was tucked in bed by considerate friends when he became intoxicated. Returning later to awaken him, they found the huge drink had caused his death.

SECRET AGENTS PREPARE FOR JOB MARCH

White House Under Guard as 'Hunger' Caravans Start; Battle Police in Indiana

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. —(AP.)— Unflurried but watchful, the Secret Service headquarters here today kept tab on the advancing caravans of "hunger marchers," bound for Washington from points east, north and west.

When they get here says W. H. Moran, chief of the service, they will be handled "in a manner satisfactory to all concerned."

The secret agents have been gathering data on the leaders of the movement, seeking and finding, they say, evidence that the Communists have an important hand in it.

Just where the reception of the marchers here will be has not been made clear. Demands for food and lodging are not expected to meet with official recognition, at least, while the attitude of authorities toward parading has been shown in the arrest of pickets at the White House last week. These are still in jail, will be tried tomorrow.

WARNED BY MACKEY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30. —(AP.)— "By-pass Philadelphia" is Mayor Harry A. Mackey's advice to "hunger marchers" en route to Washington to hold a demonstration. The advice was given in reply to a letter from the "United Front Hunger March Committee" here which demanded food and lodging for 475 persons on December 4. Mackey wrote in reply:

"We are now busily engaged in feeding and maintaining our own unemployed and unfortunate people, and I will not aid, abet or in any way sustain a movement which means men marching to the national capital to embarrass the President or those responsible for our laws."

RIOT IN HAMMOND

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 30.—(AP.)— Rioting marked the entry into Hammond yesterday of the midwestern delegation of the "National Hunger Army." The crowd of 250 men and women, recruited from Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, was routed with tear gas after attempting to hold a demonstration on the courthouse lawn in defiance of a police order.

The tear gas took effect on police as well as rioters and in the confusion most of the "army" climbed back into vehicles and sped out of town.

MARINES' CHIEF SCORES NAVY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. —(AP.)— Resentment of Marine Corps officers against discrimination in favor of naval officers in the question of relative rank was expressed today by Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the corps, in his annual report.

It was less than a week ago that Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler charged in a magazine article that the partiality shown by "swivel-chair admirals" in Washington to Naval Academy graduates had prevented his appointment as commandant and prompted his retirement from the corps.

For economy, said Gen. Fuller, enlistments were curtailed, with a net loss of 586 men for the fiscal year, cutting the corps to 17,379 men. Since the end of the fiscal year, further reductions to 16,008 have occurred.

British Deb Flier Gets Home Greeting

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Nov. 30 —(AP.)— Peggy Salaman, British debutante who established a new flight record from London to Cape Town, arrived here today and was given a civic reception by the Mayor.

She was greeted first by her mother and sister in her cabin aboard the steamer which also brought her tiny plane and her mascots, a pair of lion cubs, back from Africa.

British Girl Sues Chaplin for Pay

LONDON, Nov. 30 —(INS.)— May Shepherd, secretary and publicity agent, filed suit against Charlie Chaplin in Westminster County Court today for £100, claiming that amount was due her as the balance of her salary for performing the film comedian's secretarial and publicity work earlier this year.

Dog Saves Lives of Three As Big Wave Hits Ship

BOSTON, Nov. 30 —(AP.)— Bennie Seimers' sheperd dog pet of Capt. Peter Hansen of the German liner Donna Siemers, basks in the special favor of his master and his shipmates as he struts the deck today.

The story goes that Bennie saved [illegible] when [illegible] day. November, while the Donna Siemers was [illegible] high seas from [illegible] to Boston.

The dog, [illegible] dog, was standing with Capt. Hansen on the bridge [illegible] rail and he [illegible] his head from port to starboard as he scanned the tumbling sea. On the deck below First Officer [illegible] Schlueter and two seamen were battening down a hatch, when the lookout [illegible] as a mountainous wave loomed off the port bow. Bennie glanced from the [illegible] to the working men on the deck below and he leaped at his master's shin calling his attention to the big wave in time for the skipper to shout a warning to Schlueter and the seamen.

The [illegible] struck the ship and crashed the deck [illegible] Schlueter was washed against a bulkhead and received a [illegible] ligament of his right leg. As the roll of the ship threatened to toss him over the side, Bennie set his teeth in the chief officer's collar and held him until seamen rescued the officer.

Marooned Indians' Plight Clue to Lost Cliff Tribe

ZUNI, N. M., Nov. 30 —(AP.)— From the experiences of Navajo and Zuni Indians marooned a week by snowdrifts on the mesas of New Mexico, anthropologists have drawn a tentative solution of the disappearance of the cliff dwellers of Mesa Verde 600 years ago.

The mystery of the lack of skeletons about the ruins of the Colorado cliff dwellings, discovered in 1874 by two brothers, Alfred and Richard Wetherill, cattlemen, was recalled by the plight of the pinon nut hunters who suffered hunger, exposure and death in a recent blizzard.

A parallel is that the cliff dwellers might have perished in search of food. The modern red men, aided by thawing weather and several rescue parties, were pouring back to their homes today with the harvest of their annual nut hunting expedition.

The official death toll of the 1,300 Indians caught in the storm was seven. Indians said 13 more persons were unaccounted for. Two boys who ran away from the Charles H. Burke Indian school at Fort Wingate were among the missing.

ESCORT OF GIRL SHOT TO DEATH AFTER PARTY QUIZZED

POLICE DIFFER ON SUICIDE VERDICT

Powder Burns on Hands, None Near Wound, Puzzle; Youth Drinking, Guests Assert

BULLETIN.

EVANS CITY, Pa., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Richard F. Kelly, 28-year-old piano player, today was exonerated of blame for the death of his sweetheart, Doris Wilson, 26. He was released when Miss Wilson's father, Dr. H. M. Wilson, told police his daughter had committed suicide early yesterday following a "lovers' quarrel."

Absence of powder marks on her clothing today caused police to question the finding of Coroner W. S. Pohl, of Butler County, who in his report said that Doris Wilson, 26, of Evans City, found dead in her home early yesterday with a bullet in her heart, had taken her own life.

Pending completion of an investigation by Police Chief C. M. Keely, of Evans City and state troopers, Richard Kelly, 28, Butler piano player, who escorted the young woman home from a party in Butler, was being held.

Kelly said the girl ran upstairs to her room shortly after they reached her home. He heard a shot, he said, and started up the stairs when he met the girl's father, Dr. H. M. Wilson, who yelled at him:

"Call a doctor, Doris has been shot."

Chief Kelly said that the girl's escort has refused to answer questions. Kelly was puzzled by the presence of powder burns on the girl's hand. No powder marks were found on her clothing, he said.

Police were questioning other guests at the party in the hope of learning something that may aid them. Keely said he has learned the couple were together in the Wilson living room for almost 40 minutes before the girl was found dead by her father.

Kelly denied at first the girl had remained with him, but later admitted it, police said. He refused to tell anything more, Keely said. Guests at the party said that Miss Wilson's escort had been drinking, but denied that liquor was served at the affair, it was said.

VOTE MACHINES ATTACKED

Prompted by reports that some of the Poole voting machines delivered to Allegheny County are without the specified electrical equipment, the League of Women Voters today demanded that a public examination of the machines be made and that further payments be withheld.

A letter left at the County Commissioners' office by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the league, and Mrs. J. O. Miller, chairman of the county government committee, sets forth that a request was made of Gilbert C. Cloonan, head of the county elections bureau, for permission to examine the machine, but that he refused.

M'GOVERN AWAY

The two were expected to carry their appeal in person to Commissioner E. V. Babcock, who alone represents the board in the absence of Commissioner C. C. McGovern on a vacation trip to Bermuda.

About $400,000 still is due the Poole Engineering and Machine Company of Baltimore, pending the examination. About $700,000 already has been paid on the contract, the letter says.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS

On election day, the league had volunteer workers at all the polling places where 186 machines were in use, the league states. The workers found 53 machines out of order and requiring adjustments. Mrs. Smith attended a re-examination of the Poole machines in Harrisburg recently, the letter asserts, and found that three hours were required to set up the machines for a special ballot suggested for Allegheny County.

The league requests that at the examination all organizations interested be invited.

Few Friends, No Actors At Lya de Putti Rites

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—They buried Lya de Putti today—a handful of close friends, a few servants and the inevitable curious.

There was a solemn high requiem mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral. Woodlawn Cemetery was the burial place.

Mrs. Nate Spingold, close friend of the Hungarian screen star, who died last week after a short illness, offered to provide cars to the cemetery "for all who show enough interest in the dead girl to attend the funeral."

Thousands of curious passed the 32-year-old actress' bier yesterday in an undertaker's parlor on Broadway—the street where her attempt to win stage honors failed a year ago—but none of the familiar faces of screen or theatrical stars was observed among them.

The principal mourners today were Mrs. Spingold, Mme. Romula Nagiski, who was Miss De Putti's secretary; the Rev. Father J. P. Connor, of West Orange, N. J., a friend, and Miss De Putti's servants.

THREE TRAPPED IN MINE BLAST

LOGAN, W. Va., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Three men were trapped in an explosion at the No. 1 mine of the Monitor Coal Company near here today. One body was recovered and rescue workers started a search for the other two men, believed to be dead.

The three men, all machine cutters, entered the mine a short time before other miners were due to start work. Mine department officials said they apparently struck a gas pocket just as they started to work.

The explosion, local in nature, cracked the mine roof at that point and water pouring in from the creek bed above hampered rescue workers.

Jews Here Adopt Polish Rule Protest

A protest decrying the Polish government's disregard of the rights of 4,000,000 Jewish-Polish citizens was adopted at a meeting of 400 representatives of 86 Jewish organizations, comprising the Pittsburgh Council of the American Jewish Congress, in the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night. Copies were sent to the State Department and the Polish ambassador in Washington.

Oscar Robins was chairman of the meeting. Speakers were Rabbis S. H. Goldenson, A. M. Ashinsky, B. A. Friedman, Herman Halperin, W. E. Kochin, Wolf Leiter, B. A. Lichter, M. A. Levin, Goodman A. Rose and M. Sivitz.

'HELL AND JAIL' AT HOME SEEN BY GANDHI

Tells of Plan to Continue Fight While Plodding in Early Morning London Fog

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandi, despairing of the independence for India he came here to seek at the round table conference, today prepared to sail for home Saturday to what he predicted is going to be "hell," and probably more jail for him.

The little man, as he plodded through slushy streets on his regular early morning walk at 4 o'clock yesterday, looking even more ghost-like in the raw, cold fog, said:

"There is going to be hell. I leave Saturday for Bombay. There we shall take up again our weaponless battle against England.

"Yes, I expect to be a guest of the government again in jail—or they might deport me, but the fight will go on."

CALVARY OF SUFFERING

He plodded along, his head bowed, his shoulders drooped and his homespun shawl pulled tightly around his scrawny body. His voice sounded spectral as it came through the thick fog to the listener at his side.

From behind him came the solicitous admonition of Mira Behn, the former Miss Madeleine Slade, his devoted disciple:

"This way, baaboo (father)."

The Mahatma paused while she picked up the end of his trailing shawl and put it around his shoulder, beckoning to a turn in the road. Then he said:

"We must go again through a Calvary of suffering. It seems God's will that we must take up our heavy cross and carry it to the end.

AWAIT SIGNAL TO FIGHT

"The masses in India are only awaiting my signal to resume the battle, but I think I shall study conditions a while before I give it."

The little party almost ran into a milkwagon in the fog. The driver's lantern flashed in the Mahatma's face. He said:

Gandhi answered:

"Yes, quite British.

"I was not going out this morning, I thought I might just as well walk around and round my room and keep dry, but I decided nothing British, not even the weather, should change the habit of a lifetime."

Fairmont Co-Eds List 'Perfect Male' Rules

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The "perfect male" must, above all, be intelligent, representative co-eds at Fairmont State College say. Next, he must have a sense of humor, he must be able to dance well and he must be good looking.

The majority of co-eds interviewed grant men the right to smoke and drink moderately, but prefer that they do not.

Supreme Court Voids Wisconsin Tax Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today in a 6 to 3 decision held unconstitutional the provisions of the Wisconsin tax law under which a husband is taxed on the earnings and income of both himself and wife.

Justice Holmes, Brandeis and Stone dissented.

ADMITS SELLING PUPILS RUM, FINED $100

Dormont Woman Trapped by Phone Call; Father of 11 Paroled in Sale to Agents

A Dormont woman who pleaded guilty to selling liquor to Dormont High School pupils was fined $100, and a Baldwin Township resident who admitted selling two drinks to prohibition agents was paroled for 18 months today by Judge R. M. Gibson in United States District Court.

The woman, Mrs. Castro, 23, of Edgehill and West Liberty avenues, Dormont, admitted telephoning to a high school pupil to tell him she had changed her place of business. The student's mother, it was said, answered the telephone and ordered wine.

Mrs. Castro was arrested when she sent Philip Gallo to the home with the wine. Gallo was fined $10. Mrs. Castro said she sold liquor to support herself and her two children. Her husband deserted her some time ago, she testified.

Mike Cardell, 59, of Baldwin Township, the father of 11 children, admitted selling two drinks to agents. He said he had decided to quit handling liquor and was working in his garden when the agents accosted him.

Stork Wins Race With N. Y. Taxicab

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—A stork that wouldn't wait for time or taxicabs won a race yesterday. An eight-pound baby was born to Mrs. Rose Rabinowitz, of the Bronx, while she was being rushed in a taxicab to Suydenham Hospital.

CURTIS SEEKS RENOMINATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—After sitting in the anxious seat for many months, Vice President Charles Curtis decided today to stake his political future with Herbert Hoover in 1932, instead of retiring and standing for the Senate from his native Kansas.

The Vice President issued a statement in which he said he would accept renomination as vice president next year, if the Republican national convention offers it to him.

As set forth in his statement, the Vice President has been subjected to considerable pulling and hauling by his friends. Some of his closest intimates urged him to retire from the vice presidency and stand for the Senate again. He was, they urged, almost certain of election from Kansas, while there is considerable doubt about the ability of the Hoover ticket to pull through next year.

On the other hand, some of his close friends urged him not to "leave the ship" at this time. They emphasized that if he announced he was not a candidate for renomination as Vice President next year, it would be interpreted in many quarters as indicating his belief that Mr. Hoover could not be re-elected.

REESE, FAMOUS 'BONESETTER,' DIES AT 76

Ex-Pittsburgh Mill Man Won Prominence Healing Celebrities and Workers

International News Service.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 30.—A career that carried him from the obscurity of a humble steel worker to international fame as a "miracle man" was at an end today with the death of John D. (Bonesetter) Reese.

The man who restored health to many of the world's great and near great by the dexterous manipulation of his hands died last night at his home here from a heart attack. He was 76 years old and had been ill a week before death took him.

Among the thousands who were treated by "Bonesetter" Reese in his office here were David Lloyd George, Will Rogers, Battling Nelson, Fred Stone and Gene Tunney. Battling Nelson came to him when the fighter had broken both hands in a bout with Frank Whitney. Reese cured him.

SENT NO BILLS

The famed "miracle man" never resorted to the use of medicines, relying entirely upon his master of the "healer's" technique and his thorough knowledge of the human bone structure. He never submitted bills, allowing his patients to pay whatever they believed his services were worth.

Born in Wales in 1855, Reese came to the United States when 22 years old. By that time he had already worked in steel mills in England and Wales. It was in his native Wales that he was first initiated into the arts of "bonesetting" and acquired his fundamental knowledge of human anatomy.

He worked in steel mills in Pittsburgh and Youngstown for 22 years after his arrival in this country. Then by sheer accident he inaugurated his "bonesetting" practice. When a worker in a Youngstown mill fractured his leg, Reese set the broken bones and the injury healed. From that time on Reese's reputation as a "miracle man" grew and spread until it became international.

GETS SPECIAL LICENSE

Reese encountered opposition from medical men for a number of years, but reports of his healings were ever increasing.

The Ohio state Legislature recognized his powers in 1900 when it enacted a special statute designed to protect him from prosecution and according him the right to practice the "bonesetting" art.

Circus day in Youngstown brought added work for the "bonesetter," and sometimes as many as three score performers came to his office for treatment. He was the favorite of prize fighters and professional baseball players as well.

MRS. M'CREADY WINS DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret L. McCready, of 548 North Sheridan avenue, today was awarded a divorce from Harrison R. McCready, of Fox Chapel Manor, on the grounds of cruelty, by Judge Elder W. Marshall.

At the hearing recently she testified her husband came home on drunken sprees and that on one occasion he tore a $5,000 diamond bracelet from her arm and trampled it.

Anjeannette Hunter, Western Pennsylvania golf champion, told of McCready's upsetting a birthday dinner table, the turkey landing in her lap. The husband did not contest the suit.

Jugoslavs Celebrate Nation's Anniversary

Jugoslavs of the tri-state district attended the thirteenth anniversary of the birth of the Jugoslav kingdom in Memorial Hall yesterday. In the evening there was a banquet in Webster Hall. Radoje Jankovich, of New York, consul general of Jugoslavia in the United States, was the principal speaker at both gatherings. Other speakers were Koste Unkovich and the Rev. Joseph Skur, of Pittsburgh; Vlajko Lugvano, Detroit; George Devic, president of the Jugoslavia Club; Branko Diecic, of the Serbian National Federation; Mark Vinski, of Etna, and the Rev. D. Juvgovich, of McKeesport.

JAPAN RENEWS ATTACK ON STIMSON

any advance except in self-defense but that troops would have been sent against Chinchow if the Japanese position had been menaced by Chinese attacks from that quarter.

This, the War Office said, was explained by Foreign Minister Shidehara to Ambassador Forbes but it was given a different interpretation by the time it was made public by American officials in Washington.

Stimson and Forbes were blamed by the War Office for the misinterpretation.

STIMSON MISQUOTED

Before the War Office entered the controversy, the atmosphere had been cleared by a Foreign Office statement apologizing for the "impulsive expression" of criticism of Secretary Stimson.

The Foreign Office spokesman said that it was made that Stimson had been misquoted and that incident was considered closed.

Meanwhile, the controversy had a repercussion in Japanese politics with indications that the Seiyukai, opposition party, was planning to attack the present government on the ground Shidehara had bound the army with authorization.

TO LAUNCH FIGHT

The fight will be launched, it was understood, before the Diet meets. The Seiyukai will base its opposition on the reported assurance given by Baron Shidehara to Secretary Stimson that the Japanese army would not take Chinchow.

The Foreign Office maintains that Shidehara gave no official pledge to Stimson that the army would not occupy Chinchow, but merely assured him the occupation would not take place—a hair-splitting perhaps strange to anyone unfamiliar with oriental modes of expression.

Stimson Seen as 'Goat' In Japanese Quarrel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (INS)—Although the Japanese Foreign Office has retracted its sensational criticism of Secretary of State Stimson, considerable tension continued today to mark the relations between Tokio and Washington.

In State Department official circles here as odd to say the least that no sooner had the Foreign Office retracted its criticism than the Japanese war department promptly came forward with another statement which accused either Stimson or the American ambassador of having "distorted" the Japanese position.

Some officials expressed the belief that Secretary Stimson was being made the goat in a quarrel between the Japanese war department and the Japanese Foreign Office. The understanding is here that the military heads in Japan are at loggerheads with the civil officials of the Foreign Office and each group is conveniently using American "interference" to promote its own ends.

Meanwhile the war of words was characterized as a closed incident at the state department today.

The action of the Japanese war department in vigorously criticizing Stimson was regarded here as particularly objectionable coming as it did after the Tokio foreign office had retracted its criticism. The war office's closing statement was that "the responsibility of the United States Secretary of State is very grave."

Steps Taken to Put Armistice Into Effect

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service

MUKDEN, Nov. 30.—The first formal step to put into operation the terms of the agreement reached late Saturday between Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang and Japanese representatives in Peiping for complete settlement of the Southern Manchurian dispute was taken here today.

Edouardo Ferrer, Spanish consul general at Shanghai, was ordered by his government to proceed to Chinchow to co-operate in establishment of a neutral zone surrounding that important railway city. Creation of this neutral territory was one of the terms agreed upon by Chang Hsueh-Liang and M. Yano, Japanese charge d'affaires at Peiping, in their agreement settling the conflict.

Establishment of the neutral zone was agreed upon at a conference last Saturday night in Peiping between Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, and Japanese Charge D'Affaires Yano. The nationalist government at Nanking is understood to have given its approval to this agreement, though Marshal Chang ordered it into effect without awaiting word from Nanking.

International News Service dispatches Saturday night disclosed 24 hours in advance of any other news agency the fact that Marshal Chang and the Japanese charge d'affaires had signed an armistice agreement for the Chinchow area.

Despite reports that Gen. Mah Chan-Shan is again menacing Tsitsihar, the belief was expressed at Japanese military headquarters here today that the most critical phase of the Manchurian situation had passed.

Japan Again Blocks League Settlement

QUAI D'ORSAY, PARIS, Nov. 30.—Japan again blocked settlement of the Manchurian dispute this evening.

On the heels of acceptance by the Chinese Nationalist government at Nanking of the peace settlement drafted by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, calling for establishment of a neutral zone in the Chinchow area, Japan insisted upon its right to proceed onto that territory if necessary to suppress bandits.

2 Hunters Jailed For Using Lights

Two hunters alleged to have used automobile headlights to lure rabbits within gunshot were given jail sentences today on charges of violating the state game laws by Justice of the Peace C. A. Wyke of Bridgeville.

John Winchek was sent to jail for 115 days and Casimero Giovonnelli for 90 days when they were unable to pay fines.

Japanese Embassy In London Stormed

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A band of more than 20 men attacked the Japanese embassy in Portman Square here last night and tried to force an entry but escaped into a thick fog as police arrived.

Some of the windows of the embassy were broken in the attack, the purpose of which was unknown to the assailants.

SLAYER HARRY STARCHOK, 29, AND HIS SON, GEORGE, 4

Slayer Starchok, Conemaugh, Pa., who today at Rockview paid society with his life for the attack and ax slaying of seven-year-old Betty Mowry, neighbor's child. It was the story of his young son that helped police pin the murder on Starchok, their suspect.

SLAYER OF GIRL GOES TO DEATH IN CHAIR

Conemaugh Man Executed At Rockview for Killing Child; Betrayed by Son

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, Nov. 30.—Harry Starchok, 29, paid with his life today for the brutal murder of 7-year-old Betty Mowry, daughter of his friend and neighbor, whom he beat to death in his Conemaugh (Cambria County) home last March.

He was put to death in the electric chair at 7:02 a. m. He made no pre-death statement. A brother from Johnstown claimed the body.

Starchok, married and the father of a boy aged 4, was convicted after he had confessed the crime. Last March he lured the child to his home on the pretext of having her play with his son. By a strange coincidence, the babbling of the boy led to the arrest of the father.

CHILD SOUGHT THREE DAYS

On Friday, March 13, Starchok went to the Mowry dwelling. He invited Betty to his home and a short time later she went there. When she could not be found that day a search was instituted. Three days later her body, the head crushed, was found stuffed in a burlap sack and hidden beneath the flooring of a vacant attic adjoining the Starchok home.

While the search was being made Starchok's son, George, recalled he had seen his father and Betty together. This was repeated by the boy and his mother to the police and resulted in Starchok's arrest.

ADMITS KILLING

Under a grilling by police Starchok confessed he had attacked the child, crushed her head with an ax in the cellar of his home and carried the body to the adjoining house where he had secreted it. He later repudiated the confession.

He was tried at a special term of court in May and was convicted of first degree murder with the death penalty.

Before he was sentenced Starchok maintained he was innocent and after sentence was pronounced he said to the court:

"I thank you."

A motion for a new trial was refused.

Starchok was the fifth man from Cambria County to be electrocuted this year and the sixteenth for 1931.

SENATOR NYE IN CITY

U. S. SENATOR G. P. NYE IN PITTSBURGH TO SPEAK TODAY

TAX ON RICH URGED BY NYE

Increase of the income tax to place the burden of government receipts again upon the class that has netted approximately $11,650,000 savings to 20 millionaires alone since the Mellon plan reduction, today was urged by Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, who speaks here tonight.

Declaring the greatest problem before the coming Congress will be to increase revenue, Senator Nye held the income tax as the most equitable plan available. He cited the savings gained by the money class through adoption in 1926 of Treasury Secretary Andrew W. Mellon's plan. Illustrating how the burden was lifted from those best able to pay taxes and placed on the other classes, he said:

"Twenty national leaders, including Secretary Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Vincent Astor, J. P. Morgan and F. W. Vanderbilt paid a total of $26,428,000 in taxes in 1925. Fourteen of these men were contributors to the national campaign in 1924. After the Mellon reduction was enacted, these men had a saving of $11,650,000 for 1926 and approximately the same in the succeeding years. The reduction was almost one half."

The Senator speaks before a meeting of retail merchants tonight in Memorial Hall. He will discuss legislative needs of the independent merchants.

REVOLT CHIEFS WAIT HEARING

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 30 (AP)—One hundred and twenty suspects arrested in connection with purported conspiracy to overthrow the government and establish a dictatorship were huddled in the Budapest military prison today.

It was widely believed they were awaiting arraignment before a military court but this depends on the decision of the public prosecutor. If their activities are found to have been directed at the state itself rather than against the public only such a course surely will be followed.

The prisoners may include many innocent of active participation in the plot, it was pointed out in official quarters, but their testimony is expected to contribute to clearing up the case. Most of them are described by police as plunderers or other irregulars of counter-revolutionary period.

3 U. S. FIGHTERS RETIRING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Golf bags will take the place of swords at the stroke of midnight tonight for three of America's best-known men of war.

Each leaves behind on retirement for age from the Army or Navy a brilliant career of service under the flag. One carries the memory of a stirring controversy with naval superiors which echoed throughout the land.

They are Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, of Independence, Ia.; Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, of Omaha, and Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, of Yazoo County, Miss.

The Army, which keeps tab on its retired officers in the off chance that their services might be required, asked its two retiring generals what they planned to do. Each replied:

"I'm going to play golf as I have always wanted to play it."

get from the nizam $1,200,000, very welcome now that Kemal has deprived the once caliph of his profitable spiritual job.

THE NIZAM, erroneously called the richest man in the world, probably worth a few hundred millions at most, is distinguished for his marital moderation. His father had 700 wives, whereas this nizam has ONLY 300.

It is difficult in America to imagine having 300 wives all at the same time. Among loyal Mohammedans there is no "wine, woman and song," wine being forbidden.

Mohammed made up for that in two ways.

You may have many wives here on earth, if you can afford them.

And, as you are sure to get tired of so many, none of the wives may go to the men's heaven. There the good Mohammedan, who is about 30 feet tall in Paradise, finds extra-special beautiful young houris provided for him, and their bodies made of solid musk.

In addition he has all the wine he wants. It never makes him drunk.

IT IS SAID THAT Mohammed's Koran was written for him by an intelligent Jewish friend, the prophet being unable to write, and that the friend examined all religions carefully and put in the Koran whatever he thought would be attractive.

The fact that 300,000,000 still follow the prophet, turning toward Mecca morning and evening, proves that the choice was made intelligently.

DODGED TRIAL 18 YEARS, FREE

For 18 years he was a fugitive from justice, charged with murder.

Finally arraigned today in Criminal Court, he strolled out scot-free in three hours.

The prisoner, Fred Roberts, Negro, wouldn't have been caught if a disappointed woman in Chicago hadn't notified Pittsburgh police—after all these years.

Today there were no witnesses to identify Roberts. He was accused of driving a car that struck and killed Mrs. Bessie Smith, 55, Maripoe street. Before he went on trial the charge was lowered to involuntary manslaughter.

Visiting Judge Myles J. Potter directed the jury to find him not guilty.

Fame for 'Elegy' Now Denied Stoke Poges

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—A tradition of nearly 200 years' standing was shattered today by the London Daily Express, which declared after considerable research that Thomas Gray's immortal "Elegy" was not written in the ancient churchyard of Stoke Poges.

Researches, the newspaper declared, prove conclusively that the poem was written in the neighboring village of Upton-Cumchalvey. The curfew "which tolls the knell of parting day," the Express said, rang in Windsor Castle as it still does. But the curfew cannot be heard in Stoke Poges.

In addition, it was said, the "ivy-mantled tower" referred to in the poem could not have been that of Stoke Poges, because it was not sufficiently ancient.

WHEELING MEN LOSE RUM PLEA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today upheld a verdict of guilty against three men convicted of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law in Wheeling, W. Va., which was attacked on the ground that the jury was coerced by the instructions of Federal Judge William S. Baker.

William Lias, Jole Fragale and Theodore Prosos, appealed from sentences ranging from a year and a half to two years in prison.

The convicted men set out that after the jury had been deadlocked Judge Baker gave a supplemental charge at 10:30 p. m., after the jury had been out 13 hours, in which he emphasized the necessity of jurors being willing to change their minds after hearing arguments from a majority of the jury.

BENNING URGED FOR SHERIFF

Further indication that leaders high in Independent Republican councils are backing the move to have John J. Benning, of the Fifth Ward, appointed Sheriff when Robert S. Cain resigns that office January 1 to become County Treasurer, were seen today.

Benning, Mrs. Frank J. Boyle, Seventh Ward Independent leader, and Miss Rose Danahey, secretary to Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, left for Harrisburg at 1 p. m.

It was believed generally that Miss Danahey will take McGovern's indorsement of Benning before Gov. Pinchot.

Benning, until recently friendly to James F. Malone, who resigned from the Pinchot cabinet during McGovern campaign for re-election, directed the Independent campaign in Malone's ward, the Fifth, in the primary and general election.

REED TO TALK IN WILKINSBURG

United States Senator David A. Reed will be honor guest at two affairs in Wilkinsburg tomorrow.

A delegation of borough citizens will meet him at the borough line, Penn avenue and West street, and escort him to the high school where, at 11 a. m., he will address 1,500 pupils.

Rotary, Kiwanis and Lion club members will attend a luncheon meeting in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel at 12:15 p. m., with Reed as the guest of honor.

Old Friend Pleads For Mother Jones

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—From a farmhouse decorated for a year in mourning, Mrs. Lillie May Burgess came today to observe, over radio station WOL, the first anniversary of the death of Mother Jones.

The woman who tenderly cared for the valiant old labor crusader until the hundredth and last year of her life asked for Mother Jones a more gentle memory than popular belief has hitherto accorded her.

$90,000 Gems Stolen From Straus Home

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Theft of jewelry valued at between $60,000 and $90,000 from the home of Herbert N. Straus, president of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, was disclosed by police yesterday.

Ten of the twelve servants in the house said they had seen no suspicious characters. Numerous other wealthy families living in the vicinity have been victimized recently by jewel thefts.

Railroad Executives Meet on Wage Cuts

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Executives of western railways met today to discuss, among other things, the problem of wage reductions among employes who have wage agreements with the railroads.

Because union leaders will consider the same question here December 8, no definite announcement as to policy was expected to come from today's conference of executives.

Erie Druggist Dies As Fire Razes Store

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Trapped by smoke and flames in his living quarters at the rear of his drug store here, Clyde Fletcher, 45, died in a fire which razed the drug store and two adjoining buildings here today with loss estimated at $75,000.

Mrs. George Fletcher, 45, was severely burned trying to rescue her brother-in-law, and three firemen were overcome by smoke and flames.

Coxey Urges Bond Plan on Congress

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Still hopeful that Congress will adopt his non-interest bearing bond plan as an emergency relief measure to bring back prosperity, Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, mayor-elect of Massillon, will leave here tonight for Washington to be present at the opening of Congress.

BUSINESS is a continuous race. Organizations are either forging ahead, lagging behind, or dropping out, depending upon how well they meet competition and serve the public.

The divisions of the Cord Corporation were not brought together for the purpose of promotion. These companies were acquired because, being specialists in their fields, they could contribute to the requirements of the whole, thus rounding out a self-contained manufacturing organization.

Under the one centralized management of the Cord Corporation, the year 1931 is the most successful year for every one of these companies.

AUBURN AUTOMOBILE COMPANY

Thirty-one years ago the Auburn automobile, the outgrowth of a buggy business, bid for patronage in a small way. When the present management took hold in 1924, Auburn had an average output of 200 cars per month; $650,820 of current liabilities, and $47,000 in cash. Few thought there was any room for Auburn to grow, because large competitors were "entrenched."

The management, then as now, believed there always will be a public demand for better products that give buyers greater value for less cost. To increase sales even in 1931, Auburn continued the same policies responsible for its growth year by year since 1924. Auburn's shipments for the first ten months of 1931 total 33,277 cars; 19,584 more cars than for the entire year of 1930 and 10,528 more cars than for the 12 months of prosperous 1929.

The Cord, America's first production Front-Drive passenger car, could come only from an organization that spares no expense or effort to search continually for new and better products. It is a matter of record that the Cord design is the most imitated in the history of the automobile industry, not only in America but also in Europe. The exclusive advantages possible only with Front-Drive have established Cord permanently as a leader in the fine car field.

LYCOMING MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Lycoming had its beginning as a small sewing machine factory at Williamsport, Pennsylvania. When Lycoming began to build motors in 1908, like Auburn, it entered an industry that was already crowded with many large competitors. At first Lycoming built four-cylinder motors to the specifications of their customers. Since 1912 Lycoming has built motors of its own design for the automotive, marine, aviation, and industrial trades. In 1924 Auburn adopted the Lycoming Straight Eight Motor, which was one of the first successful Straight Eights. Three years later Auburn acquired control of Lycoming, because it needed this source of supply. Today, Lycoming is the largest exclusive builder of motors in the world; first to make Straight Eight motors available to builders of medium priced passenger cars; largest producer of marine motors; Lycoming pioneered and produces about 95% of all Straight Eight motors for trucks; developed and produces America's most successful aviation motor. More than five million dollars have been invested by Lycoming during the past five years in development work and for machine tools and other equipment. As a result, this year is by far the most successful in Lycoming's history. Numbered among the principal users of Lycoming motors are International Harvester trucks, Stewart trucks, Dodge motor boats, Mullins motor boats, La France Republic trucks, Gramm trucks, John Deere & Co. harvesters, Stinson airplanes, and Auburn and Cord automobiles.

DUESENBERG, INC.

The first Duesenberg engine was built in 1898. Today the 265 H. P. Duesenberg is recognized as the world's finest automobile. Behind its marvelous design, construction and performance are the 33 years' engineering experience of its builders, who have contributed so greatly to the present day fund of all automotive practise. This strictly custom type automobile has almost completely routed Europe's most costly imported cars from the American market. Duesenberg builds and sells over 85% of all cars built in America for $8500 and over.

STINSON AIRCRAFT CORPORATION

Looking forward to the inevitable future magnitude of air transportation, control of Stinson was acquired in 1929. Stinson, with six years' experience of having pioneered the closed cabin type of airplane that the average man can fly, sells 78% of all the cabin airplanes built in America. During 1931 Stinson built twice as many tri-motored planes as were built by all the other American manufacturers of tri-motored planes combined. More than 50% of all passengers using regularly operated air lines in America this year have ridden in Stinson 10-passenger tri-motored planes.

SPENCER HEATER COMPANY

Spencer's 35 years of experience in designing and developing boilers for all types of buildings makes it the largest manufacturer of magazine feed type boilers in the world. While the heating industry is down about 40% this year compared to last, the number of Spencer boilers sold is the greatest in this company's history.

CENTRAL MANUFACTURING CO. LIMOUSINE BODY COMPANY

Central Manufacturing Company, Connersville, Indiana, specializes on standard automobile bodies. A search of the entire automotive industry would find no more advanced, experienced, and well equipped organization in its specialized field. Central's sales volume this year is 153% ahead of last year.

The Limousine Body Company, Kalamazoo, Michigan, was the first to make the custom type of Convertible Sedan available for production cars, and today builds over 80% of all the automobile bodies of this type built in America. Limousine's sales this year are 41% ahead of its best previous year.

COLUMBIA AXLE COMPANY

Columbia became a part of the Cord Corporation in 1929. Large sums have been invested in equipment of the latest design and of the greatest productivity. The present plant has a production capacity of 400 sets of axles per day. Columbia Axles are used in Auburn and Cord automobiles and in the vast majority of all the specially built taxi cabs produced in America. In addition Columbia serves several truck manufacturers both here and abroad.

CENTURY AIR LINES, INC.

Executives of this corporation have devoted several years to the study of all phases of air transportation. In the spring of 1928 a program was laid down that called for the development of a new, improved type of ten-passenger tri-motored transport plane and the building of a new aviation motor by Lycoming. Despite the effect of adverse business conditions on all types of transportation, including railroads, buses, steamship and air lines, the first Century line began operation in March this year. It was the first major air line to offer the public frequent schedules at rates comparable to those used by railroads. Of all the air lines in America, Century is second in point of financial responsibility. Although starting many years behind other air lines, Century is third largest in America in the number of miles traveled daily on regularly operated schedules. There are two Century lines, one in the Middle West and one on the Pacific Coast, and in July and August they carried 29.8% of all air line passengers in America. These lines form the nucleus for a nation-wide system that is being rapidly developed. At present they operate 82 trips daily, serving 18 terminus cities in 7 states, with a combined population of over 32 million people.

L. G. S. DEVICES CORPORATION

L. G. S. developed the first full Free Wheeling type of transmission. Control of L. G. S. was obtained by this corporation in the spring of 1930. Today's universal popularity and demand for Free Wheeling is largely due to the pioneering of L. G. S. and the development of its present unit with exclusive advantages obtainable in no other similar device. In the near future this corporation will announce the adoption of its Free Wheeling unit on several makes of well known cars, in addition to Auburn.

$16.50

Now, the Misses' Shop introduces the triple-sheer idea in luncheon and town frocks, using this delightful, new weave to break the news.

There are three simple, graceful models in this group, in solid colors or with bright tops. The frock on the seated figure comes in Persian rose, vivid Gainsboro blue or black, with bows of silvery white ice satin; and the other one in black with Persian rose or green top, or brown with top of Spanish tile.

8 PAY U. S. TAX ON $5,000,000 INCOMES

2 Women, 6 Men Return More Levies Than 2,613,165 In Less Than $5,000 Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 —Two married women and six men with incomes of more than $5,000,000 each paid more income tax this year than the combined 2,613,165 persons who earned less than $5,000 each, it was revealed today in the annual report of David Burnet, commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The ladies in the $5,000,000 income group were not identified in the public [illegible] but their combined income tax was $19,288,726.

Those eight persons had a total income of $37,622,000,000 and paid more than one-half of that amount in taxes. Three married women reported incomes of more than $1,000,000 each and two of them over $5,000,000.

Only three single women had incomes of more than $1,000,000 and none over $2,000,000.

The 116,262 married women who filed individual returns earned an aggregate of $ 4,476,322,308 while 107,504 single women only earned $517,514,768.

In the $5,000 income group and below the $5,000,000 income class, three persons earned between four and five million dollars, seven earned between three and four million, while 21 persons earned between two and three million.

In all, there were 149 persons earning more than $1,000,000 a year.

COSTLY AUTOS ON DISPLAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 —AP— Fashions among the automobile world's elite were exhibited last night in the Hotel Commodore as the twelfth annual automobile [illegible] exhibition of the Society of American and European body makers.

Manufacturers of automobiles selling from $4,000 upward were represented in the 64 models and varied styles.

An Italian manufacturer embodies in the front wheels of his car independent wheel suspension. Other models reveal new methods of springing, including the use of laminated springs to eliminate [illegible] special mounting of rubber of multi-cylindered engines, greater rigidity of frame construction, and new valve mechanisms.

The cars exhibited were said to have a lower center of gravity than heretofore. Many interiors are wider and in most cases the seat cushions and backs have been improved in resiliency. Conveniences ranging from vanity cases to miniature refreshment bars are provided in some cars.

Brighter colors, particularly among smaller sport models prevail except perhaps in the formal limousines.

Besides the United States and Italy, manufacturers of Belgium, England, France and Germany are represented.

Delay Sanity Hearing In 'Dream' Slaying

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Nov. 30 —Absence of a rural juryman today held up an insanity hearing for Mrs. Evelyn Harader, 42, of Clifton Mills, alleged dream slayer of Cecil Michael, 28, Clifton Mills postmaster.

The courtroom was jammed with spectators from all parts of the county, anxious to hear testimony on which the jury will determine whether Mrs. Harader is sane and accountable for her actions.

Foreign War Vets To Hear Margiotti

Attorney Charles J. Margiotti will be the speaker at tomorrow noon luncheon meeting of the Baird-Atwood Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the Nixon restaurant, Sixth avenue. Margiotti was the special prosecutor in the cases against Irene Schrader and Glenn Dague for the killing of Corp. Brady Paul, of the State Highway Patrol.

Hinkler, Sea Flier, Lands in Morocco

PARIS, Nov. 30 —AP— A Havas Agency dispatch from Casablanca, Morocco, said Capt. Bert Hinkler, who flew across the Atlantic from Natal, Brazil, last week, landed there today from Cap Juby, and planned to leave today for Lisbon if the weather permits.

Contractor on Trial For Murdering Son

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 30 —Charged with first degree murder, C. B. Murphy, 72, Wheeling contractor, went on trial today with the state demanding the death penalty. The aged man is charged with the murder of his son, Henry Murphy, whom he shot down following a quarrel July 31. Counsel for the defense will offer insanity as a defense.

Death of Woman, 81, Caused by Fall

A fall in her home, October 1, caused injuries which resulted in the death yesterday of Mrs. Anna Kohler, a widow, 81, of 554 E. Ohio street, a Coroner's report [illegible]

LEGISLATORS GATHER FOR RELIEF TEST

Showdown Believed Near; First Skirmish Likely To Come in Lower House

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Ready to act, the General Assembly reconvenes tonight to resume its consideration of unemployment relief legislation.

Leaders of the administration and non-administration forces spent the day in preparation for the first clashes on the Pinchot $120,000,000 program.

Gov. Pinchot, who subsequent to last week's adjournment issued an appeal for speedier action on his plan, and for avoidance of "log rolling," by considering the $27,000,000 anti-Pinchot plan devoted a part of the day to a series of conferences with committee chairmen of the Senate. Later the House-Senate sub-committees met to direct available data on the state financial situation with the object of endeavoring to reach a decision regarding the necessity for the additional taxes proposed by the Governor.

In the face of the Governor's demand for quicker consideration of his program and his assertion that he could not safely open the way for compromise legislation, further postponement of the battle over his plan was regarded by legislators as being impossible and fruitless.

All developments have tended to support the prediction that the first skirmish will come in the House of Representatives. Opponents of the Pinchot program apparently are fully agreed on this course. They have expressed confidence that the anti-Pinchot majority in the Senate is stable and that the easiest method to force consideration of compromise legislation will be to overcome or hold to a bare minimum the majority the administration held in the House during the regular session.

The substitute relief program, hinging on a state appropriation of $10,000,000 to political subdivisions charged with poor relief, was drafted in the House by 24 of the anti-Pinchot group. The bill providing for the direct relief appropriation was to be introduced tonight.

2 DOWNTOWN SAFES CRACKED

Safecrackers chopped through a 15-inch brick wall to reach the safe of the Coscia Brothers in a four-story building at 110 Market street early today.

They also cracked open the safe of the adjoining Pittsburgh Leather and Glue Company at 114 Market street. The total loot was $700.

The robbers first broke into the Star Jobbing Company building at 112 Market street by forcing a rear door, made their way to the roof and dropped down the skylight of the leather company building on the left.

After cracking open the safe and getting $100 they returned to the second floor of the jobbing company and dug through the brick wall which led them to the Coscia safe, which netted $600.

Five second-hand empty safes in the Star Jobbing Company building were ignored.

A year ago safecrackers executed the same two jobs in similar manner, except that the brick wall was not dug through.

Employer Arrested As 'Torch' Slayer

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 30, (AP)—Albert Renier, restaurant worker, died in the Ellis Hospital today, victim of what police described as a fourth murder.

John de Bracchio, owner of the restaurant where Renier was employed, is being held on the strength of Renier's statements that it was De Bracchio who poured alcohol on his clothing and set it afire. Police said they had "told that" Renier and De Bracchio had been interested in the same girl, and that De Bracchio was beneficiary in an insurance policy on Renier's life.

Killed by Train In East Liberty

Believed to have been hit by a train while walking in the East Liberty yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, a man thought to be Luis Sanchez, 25, a Mexican, was found fatally injured in the yards early yesterday. He died while being taken to Pittsburgh Hospital. Papers found in his pockets indicated he was from Johnstown.

Guisthau, Former French Minister, Dies

PARIS, Nov. 30 (AP)—Gabriel Guisthau, a former cabinet member under Raymond Poincare and Aristide Briand, died Friday, it has been revealed.

SOCIALIST RAPS PROGRESSIVES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Norman Thomas, one-time Socialist candidate for President, told a conference of leaders of liberal organizations today that the so-called progressives in Congress have failed.

Meeting here to discuss unemployment on the eve of the congressional session, the conference heard Thomas lay a part of the blame for this alleged failure upon the absence of a well-thought out program. Thomas suggested a program for the so-called progressives which included:

Resistance of any effort to get us out of our present economic difficulties by having the United States finance a war between Japan and China.

The five-day week, advance planning of public works on a large scale and compulsory unemployment insurance.

A billion dollar federal loan to be used partly to aid in municipal housing and community projects.

Doctor's THREE RULES

Big Help to Constipated

WHAT a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a bowel movement at exactly the same hour daily.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh, laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients that could not hurt even a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Clean up that coated tongue, sweeten that bad breath and get rid of those tiring headaches. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will soon free the bowels from waste. You'll eat better and sleep better, and feel better all over. Generous bottles at all druggists.

BANDIT ROBS GAS STATIONS

An armed white man in an automobile was being sought by police today for the holdup of two gasoline stations shortly after 3 a. m.

A. R. Zatman, of 124 Bangor street, night attendant at a Gulf gasoline station at Braddock avenue and Forbes street, reported he was robbed of $9.80 by the man who forced him into the rear of the station and rifled the cash register.

Twenty minutes later a man answering the same description held up E. R. Clark, of 1515 Creedmore avenue, night attendant at a gasoline station at Baum boulevard and Euclid avenue, and robbed him of $10.

DOLL LADY

Knows It Better Than Anyone Else

Hundreds of Little Girls of Pittsburgh and Vicinity Have Already Secured Their

"HONEYBUNCH"

and have been made supremely happy

Read the Doll Lady's Message Today:—

Dear Little Girls:—

Day by day the distribution of "Honeybunches" gets bigger and bigger. In fact, the rush came much earlier this year than it did a year ago and many little girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity have already done the simple, easy things I asked them to do and have already taken their "Honeybunch" home with them. I have an idea that the fond and proud mothers are going to keep "Honeybunch" tucked away until the holidays, but, at that, there is a lot of satisfaction in knowing that this big, beautiful doll has been secured long ahead of the holidays and that there will surely be sunshine and joy for the little girls in these homes before Santa Claus makes his annual visit.

I am positively sure that I have enough "Honeybunches" on hand in the big doll house to take care of every demand before Christmas day, but to be on the safe side, it is advisable that all little girls get their dolls early and avoid the tremendously big rush that is bound to come just before the holidays.

This Is "Honeybunch"—Isn't She a Darling?

I have written so much about this magnificent doll that there is little new to say about her. I want to emphasize, however, that "Honeybunch" is an exclusive doll and invites comparison with any other doll that is given away. Many of the features for which "Honeybunch" is famous are protected by patents and consequently cannot be used by other doll makers. And my doll is not for sale in any of the stores.

She is approximately as tall as this newspaper is long—almost the size of a real live baby. She is b-e-a-u-t-i-f-u-l-l-y dressed in dainty, lace trimmed organdy, with lace cap and shoes and stockings to match. Her eyes twinkle, she can go to sleep, and she has a voice that reaches your heart every time you hear it. Her arms and hands are made of flexible rubber and you can wash them. She has rubber panties and a pacifier. "Honeybunch" is as nearly unbreakable as a doll can be. You'll just fall in love with her at first sight.

Here are the names of some of the little girls who have sent letters to me, saying that they wanted a "Honeybunch" for a playmate: Edna Schnell, Alean Wright, Ida Warner, Lois Stone, Florence White, Elaine Walls, Catherine Coleman, Norma King, Eva Neiman, Helen Zarry, Louise Gibson, Ruth Gloab, Betty Thompson, Mildred May Baker, Olive Marie Batch, Mildred E. Batch, Delana Pannill, Irene Mahnick, Allean Dobbins, Helen Havnilla, Susie Sargo, Ruth Anna Eneis, Frances Humenik, Marian L. Taylor, Angeline Barber, Mary Louise Curtis, Edith Blanche Curtis, Margaret Dattilio, Victoria Cerossino, Dorothy Tebbo, Eileen Gill, Mary Caravuggu, Georgia P. Craig, Lois Gebo, Doris McNary, Edna Mary Robert, Mary Bakarra, Bernadine Glasgow, Anna Marie Nichols, Margaret Falls, Anna Specht, Gay Thompson, Edith Lillian Zozain, Sara May Kozain, Madaline Bell, Martelle Hauck, Evelyn Machesley, Mary Alice Ferrel, Betty Kepple, Helen Nerone.

"Honeybunch" is a darling in every way—a marvelous playmate. I have made it unusually easy for little girls to get this marvelous doll and if you really want one, send me your name and address on the coupon in this announcement and I'll send you a letter by return mail telling just what you'll have to do to get a "Honeybunch" all for yourself.

Don't wait! Do it now so that you can have your dolly long before Christmas. Goodbye 'till tomorrow.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

THIS LITTLE STORY—another yarn of the gambling urge—came to pass in the very excellent town of Los Angeles, Cal. It concerns a New York millionaire whom most of us know. If I don't know him socially, as indeed I do not, I at least know him by reputation.

This particular millionaire is a first-class sap. His daddy left him plenty of millions—and this chap has nothing to do but spend them. He's about 35 years of age, has a tiny trick mustache, watery eyes, thin lips and a fat tummy. He's such a fool that he thinks money will buy everything. And he's probably right.

I'll have to call this bird something—so I might as well call him Mr. Jones. It might be anything. But Jones is nice and short and popular and sweet. So Jones it will be.

Jones was in Los Angeles to see what the films were made of. It might also be possible that he was there to see what the film stars were made of. That of course I am in no position to state.

At any rate, Jones was introduced to all the prominent members of the film colony. He attended a party at the home of Mary Brian, took quite a fancy to Sylvia Sidney, escorted Jean Harlow to a film opening and was quite a figure in Hollywood film society. Which is not a bad way for a millionaire to spend his time and money.

Just how it happened my informant failed to say. But in some fashion or another Mr. Jones was introduced to three very charming gentlemen who made their living by shooting craps.

They lived well dressed well, ate well, slept well and insisted that they were in the business of writing scenarios.

The only writing they ever did, however, was to total their winnings after clipping a sucker. And since most of the Hollywood boys and girls love their little crap games earnings were not so bad. Hollywood's motto at the present time incidentally seems to be "Eat, Drink and Be Merry, for Tomorrow We Die."

Jones met these three gentlemen and was intrigued by their very charming manners. It was only a matter of hours before they had taken the sum of $10,000 from him. Whereupon Jones arose from the game.

"Gentlemen," he cried, "thank you very much for a wonderful evening. I'll be back tomorrow night—if you'll favor me with a little game."

Would they favor him with a little game? Haha. Will a reporter buy a suit with two pairs of pants? The three gentlemen actually did a little dance around the room after Jones had departed. What a sucker! Would they favor him again? What a question!

All of which if you'll permit me to interrupt myself once more—reminds me of the yarn that Ed Wynn told me one night a year or so ago. It's been printed several times, but it fits well in here and I'd like to tell it again.

A Canadian woodchopper had labored for 15 years in the very heart of Canada. Every morning he would arise at dawn and commence to chop trees. At night he would tumble into bed so weary that he would sleep as soon as he hit the pillow. And, at the end of every year he would trudge to the nearest town and deposit $100 that he had saved.

After 15 years of this terrific labor, he had accumulated $1500. He decided to come to New York and see what the big town looked like. After those 15 long years, he felt he was entitled to it.

Arriving in town, he walked up Broadway. In front of one of the hotels, he was accosted by a narrow-eyed gent who asked if the woodsman wouldn't care to get into a little crap game. After thinking it over, the woodsman decided to risk a $100 note in the game.

An hour later, the woodsman arose. His $1,500 was gone. He hadn't a penny left. He stood up, brushed his trousers and smiled.

"Well, boys," he cried, "it's back to the woods for me, I guess. You know the old saying, 'easy come, easy go!'"

That little story works as well in the case of our friend, Mr. Jones. With the exception of the fact, of course, that in his case it was actually "easy come, easy go."

On the second night, back was Mr. Jones in his dice game with the three wise men of Hollywood. This time, after a scant 20 minutes, Mr. Jones had dropped another $8,000. Which meant that he had lost $18,000 to these men in two games.

"Listen, boys," was his assertion, "we gotta give this guy a winning. Even a dope like that will wise up sooner or later. Now here's my idea.

"We'll let him win all his dough back tomorrow night, and even give him a couple of grand in the bargain. The following night after he thinks he's too good for us—we'll hook him for $50,000 and then lam out of town.

"I know that kind of a guy. After he hits us once, there'll be no stopping him. We'll give him the break tomorrow, and then we'll take him for everything he's got the next night and clear out of Hollywood for the time being."

One partner agreed with the speaker. But the third couldn't see it that way at all.

"We've got him for 18 grand now," he cried, "what's the use of giving it back to him. Suppose you haven't got him tabbed just right? Suppose he doesn't come back? Then where will we be?"

But the other two argued him out of his idea. They pointed out that they might as well gamble for a large stake as a small one. And in the end, the third man was convinced that it would be the best thing to do . . .

The following night found them playing again. This time, Mr. Jones seemed to be running in the most amazing luck. But by bit, he was winning back all his losses. Little did he know that he was throwing dice that couldn't lose unless something shifted the spots on the dice.

When Jones had won $20,000 as per their original agreement, the boys called the game off for the night. Jones thanked them all. When they asked him how soon he would return for the next session, he merely shrugged his shoulders and departed.

The next night Jones did not arrive. Another night and still no Jones. Four days drifted by and the boys were tipped off that Jones was leaving for the East the following day.

Driven fairly frantic, the main gentleman finally reached Jones at the latter's hotel. He caught him in the lobby, pumped his hand jovially and cried:

"Well, Jonesy, old man, how have you been? Hear you're going East tomorrow. How about a little session tonight before you leave? You're $2,000 ahead of us, you know."

The millionaire blinked his watery eyes and then smiled happily.

"Oh, by the way," he cried, "I forgot to tell you boys something that night. About 10 years ago, when I first started to gamble, I promised myself that I would quit as soon as I made a winning.

"But, somehow or other, I could never quite get that winning. I've had the most confounded luck, somehow. And then along came the other night with you boys and I won $20,000 in one game. Of course, I lost $18,000 of it—but it was a winning just the same.

"I'm through gamboling now. And it's pretty lucky for me I won that night! I guess I probably would have lost $16,000 to you boys if it hadn't been for that. So you can see how lucky I was.

"Give my regards to those two other charming boys. Glad to have seen you. Good-bye"——

Babcock Fires 150 County Workers in Economy Drive

WELFARE FUND DRIVE EXTENDED ANOTHER WEEK

CUT IN PAYROLL SAVES $50,000 IN MONTH

Dismissals in Public Works Termed Vital by Official; Return of Ziefel Hinted

One hundred and fifty employes of the Allegheny County Department of Public Works were dismissed today by Chairman E. V. Babcock, of the Board of County Commissioners.

The dismissals, Babcock said, will effect a saving of $50,000 for the county by the first of the year, and were made because the county did not have funds to continue the workers on the payroll.

EFFECTIVE TODAY

"We had to lay off every non-essential worker.

"It's hard to do this Christmas month, but we had to do something to reduce operating expenses. There are no politics involved and I did it for the best interests of the county.

"Commissioner McGovern, who is in Bermuda, was not consulted."

The lowest salary paid those dismissed is $1,593 a year, the two highest $4,200 to an architectural supervisor and $6,600 to the chief engineer in the construction section of the road division.

Babcock said he knew of no further plans for dismissals.

DISMISSALS LISTED

Those dismissed today included:

General office—Two stenographers.

Bureau of Accounts—A bookkeeper and three clerks.

Division of Statistics—One clerk.

Bureau of Tests—Eight testers and an inspector.

HER COSTUME LAID AWAY

Christmas Seals Might Help Her Recover

MISS AGNES MACHALEK . . . . . HER COSTUME CAME FROM CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Miss Machalek, pretty patient at the Tuberculosis League Hospital, exhibiting the costume she made to wear for Christmas three years ago in Czechoslovakia. She's too ill to wear it now.

Girl Needle Artist Saved by Seal Sale

By PENELOPE REDD

Three years ago in Louka, a Moravian village, Agnes Machalek's busy fingers were working the final threads of her elaborately embroidered "Christmas dress."

Today, Agnes, a patient at the hospital of the Tuberculosis League in Pittsburgh, touches the same "Christmas dress" with fingers made idle by sickness. Agnes said:

"In America, I did not know English and I had no friends until I came here to the hospital.

"In Louka, it was different for I knew all. When Christmas comes, I do remember well our great feast.

"The Christmas eve, I first wore this dress. I cut the apple and found the rose. I am glad for that means a long life and a happy one."

"See, here is the apple.

"While the mother put the little ones to bed, we older ones went out to sing our Christmas songs, and all around the village you could hear the sound of 'Holy Night.'"

Agnes left Louka the spring after she had achieved her first grown-up feast dress. She and her father came to the United States unaware of the dreadful difficulties that faced them.

Securing work in a household, Agnes helped not only her jobless father, but sent money to the family back in Czechoslovakia as well.

After an illness last winter, her case was diagnosed as tuberculosis and she was sent to the hospital of the Tuberculosis League.

Without the aid of the diagnostic clinics financed by funds derived by the penny Christmas seal, Agnes probably would have perished without a chance. She is but one of the many thousands who are examined in the tuberculosis clinics. They are either pronounced free of tuberculosis or some provision for their care is secured. The penny Christmas seal, the agent of this mercy, is on sale now until December 24. Twenty million seals must be disposed of in Allegheny County to continue the work.

REPORTS SWELL DONATIONS TO $4,068,142

A List of Welfare Fund Contributors Appears on Page 21.

Extension of the joint campaign of the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association until next Monday was decided today as volunteer workers' reports swelled the total collections to $4,068,142, still $1,900,000 short of the goal.

Regardless of whether all the $5,981,184 is pledged by Monday noon, Chairman Joseph Dilworth announced the efforts of the volunteer workers will be concluded. Today's figures, reported at a noon luncheon in the William Penn Hotel, totaled $421,839, the first report since last Tuesday. The next reports will be filled at luncheon Thursday.

The army of 10,000 men and women volunteers in the appeal got little rest over the weekend, seeking to collect every possible contribution. Cases of real sacrifice on the part of persons who themselves are in need have inspired the workers to continue their solicitations until the last possible moment.

SACRIFICES REVEALED

Some cases of real sacrifice were reported as follows: Two Negro children and their mother, who supports the family, contributed $3 from their slender household fund; the employes of a laundry in receivership, with salaries overdue, raised a fund of $100; a group of North Side school children turned in $26.10, and a girl married and the sole support of a family of eight, subscribed not only from her place of employment but gave $5 more from her home.

Employes of the Koppers Company and its subsidiaries, the American Tar Products Company, the Koppers Coal Company and the Koppers Building have subscribed $25,487.24, in addition to $7,810 turned in directly to the Welfare Fund. This with the corporation's subscription of $36,000, brings the Koppers total to $62,297.

FRICK GIVES $10,000

Childs Frick, brother of Helen Frick, neither of whom lives in Pittsburgh, has subscribed $10,000, the special gifts committee announced. The pledge came by mail. Miss Frick recently subscribed $26,000 to the joint fund. Two subscriptions of $5,000 each were reported Saturday from the Atlantic Refining Company and the Drake Corporation.

Welfare fund leaders are asking merchants of the city to take up the Welfare Fund flags in front of their business places. The flags have been up approximately three weeks and it is feared that inclement weather may spoil them. They were purchased several years ago and are used each year. The flags are being collected by members of the Boys' Club.

Phila. Relief Drive Goes Over $7,000,000

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The united campaign of Philadelphia charities to raise $9,000,000 by public subscription, for unemployment relief this winter, tops $7,000,000. Philip C. Staples, executive manager of the campaign, announced last night. $7,048,293 had been subscribed.

1 Held in Death During Robbery

Four Negroes, Paul Benton, 29; J. D. Crawford, 22, Charles Robinson, 23, and Loretha Robinson, 16, were turned over to the Coroner today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg for questioning in connection with the death of Edward Crawford, 14, shot by a robber in his home, 712 Watt place, last Friday night. Police said Benton had a revolver that had recently been fired.

FOUR SUSPECTS HELD IN THEFT

Four men were held for court today after they had admitted in Police Court four slot machine robberies.

In a signed statement given Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, the four admitted stealing two slot machines from the L. & N. confectionery store, Lang and Hamilton avenues; four from a place in Rankin, two in Braddock and two in Frankstown road.

The prisoners gave their names as Marion Bowser, 38, of 7331 Kelly street; Lawrence Veterley, 31, of 6937 Hamilton avenue; Clyde Pierce, 31, of 6836 Frankstown avenue, and Robert Calkins, 30, of 525 Larimer avenue. The court charges against them are entering a building and larceny.

JOBLESS MAN HANGS SELF

Out of work and despondent, police say, Mike Zukosky, 45, of 4927 Odin way, father of six children, hanged himself today in an outbuilding near his home. His wife, Eva, found his body and cut it down.

Zukosky had been a laborer for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for 27 years until a year ago, when he was laid off.

LAUDS POPULAR ART CHOICE

That Pittsburgh visitors to the Carnegie International Painting Exhibition used good judgment in their choice of a popular painting is the opinion of Raymond Simboli, one of the officials in charge of the popular vote, which ended yesterday. He said:

"The public has shown good judgment in this choice of a prize painting. 'Susanna,' by Pomi, is typical of what the public at large would like. The painting was a heavy winner over its nearest competitors, which shows that it really was a popular choice. The first-prize painting, 'Suicide in Costume,' did not fare so well in the popular poll."

Other members of the committee were William Boyd and Reed McRoberts.

For two weeks visitors at the exhibition have been asked to mark ballots with their choice of paintings. A count of the votes last night showed that "Susanna," by Alessandro Pomi, Italian artist, was the popular choice. The painter will receive the $200 popular award.

The closest competitors of the prize painting, in order of their preference, were "The Cenacle," also by Pomi; "Babette," by Eugene Speicher; "Gypsies," by Blazicek; "The House of Gerberov Evening," by Henri Eugene Le Sidaner, and "Summer, New York," by Leon Kroll.

This is the first time since the popular prize originated, eight years ago, that a European artist has won it. More than 5,000 votes were cast. Many pictures received votes, officials said, but those which received awards from the jury polled few.

GIFFORD SEES NEEDED RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(INS)—Every community of the nation will be prepared to relieve suffering among the jobless during the winter, President Hoover was assured today in a letter by Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's Emergency Relief Committee.

There was every indication, Gifford said, that every state will take care of its own this winter.

He said:

Funds specially earmarked for unemployment relief are some 50 per cent greater than last year, indicating that the people of the country are keenly aware of the need and are determined to meet it.

Girl Tennis Star To Wed New Yorker

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Miss Penelope Westdell Anderson, internationally famous tennis player, is to be married in February to Frederick Bennett McBride of New York. Miss Anderson was a member of the United States Wightman Cup team in 1927 and 1928 and toured Europe as the doubles partner of Helen Wills shortly after.

Graham Denounces Police in Politics

One of the main difficulties in the enforcement of law is the politically-controlled police departments, United States Attorney Louis E. Graham said in an address at the Squirrel Hill community service in the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Murray avenue, last night. He said in part:

"In practically every large city the police department is politically controlled. The ward chairman controls the selection of police in his ward. Dope, liquor and vice run on a concession basis. Never in the history of the world were men so contemptuous of authority as today."

Postman Sentenced 6 Months in Thefts

Arthur G. Hibbs, for 14 years a mailman in Uniontown, was sentenced to six months in Fayette county jail today by Federal Judge B. M. Gibson after pleading guilty to theft of letters containing money.

Rum Permit Supply Stolen From Doctor

From the automobile of Dr. John Kosoff, of Bentleyville, last night, thieves took a pad of liquor prescriptions and two leather cases containing his physicians' instruments, according to a police report.

A window of the car, parked in South Evaline street, was broken, the physician said. The theft was reported to the federal prohibition office.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

ABOARD SS. EMPRESS OF RUSSIA, Nov. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I been reading where Mayor Jimmie Walker was trying to get Tom Mooney out of jail. I believe if I was in jail and winter like this coming on I would whisper to my friend: "Get me out but not till spring." Jim ought to get Mooney out of jail—Mooney got Jimmy out of New York. But Jimmy don't have to be afraid of a Republican investigating committee in New York. One has never yet been able to find out even where the committee was meeting.

SHOWMAN FINED AT M'KEESPORT

Charles W. Cherrington, of Duquesne avenue, McKeesport, theatrical promoter, alleged to have presented an entertainment in Slovak Hall, White street, McKeesport, without a permit, was fined $100 at a hearing today.

Police said they received complaints that a show in which nude girl dancers were to perform was to be held in connection with a smoker. Police said that when they raided the place they found three girl dancers properly clothed, but declared that Cherrington did not have a permit.

POISON TRACED IN AMES DEATH

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A toxicologist's version of the death of Robert Ames, stage and screen actor, was expected today to determine whether he died of an overdose of sedatives.

"An autopsy already has disclosed that alcohol poisoning was not the cause of death. It likewise eliminated the theory the actor died of a hemorrhage. The findings of Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, city toxicologist, therefore are expected to fix the cause of death definitely.

Ames' body was taken to the home of his father and son at Hartford, Conn., where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Now We Know What and Why Is a Diplomat

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

That disarmament riot in Paris explains everything.

The Frenchmen hooted the international pacifists who are trying to take away their bows and arrows.

That's why we are finally able to classify a diplomat. He is a man who represents his country without consulting the people.

He is appointed by a king or a president. He gets a nice ocean voyage, but if he was elected by popular vote he couldn't take a ferryboat.

It's like a doctor trying to take your pulse through thick mittens.

If senators, mayors and governors are elected by vote, why not diplomats?

You cannot put a prune on top of the barrel and say it is a big apple.

Yes sir, that disarmament convention in Paree was something like the wedding in Holland. It started out beautifully and ended suddenly when the bride was smacked in the face with 16 wooden shoes.

11 Street Beggars Given Jail Terms

Eleven vagrants were given 10 days in jail each today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court for "panhandling" churchgoers in the downtown district yesterday. Rothenberg's sentences were in keeping with Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh's orders that "panhandling" on the streets must be stopped.

Jews of World to Observe Ancient Feast of Lights

Pittsburgh Jewry will join members of their faith throughout the world in the celebration of Hanukkah, the Feast of Lights, this week.

The holiday, often known as the Feast of Rededication, is one of the two Jewish festivals which is not of Mosaic origin. Commencing at sundown on the twenty-fifth day of Kislev, corresponding this year to December 4, and lasting eight days, the feast is observed in synagogue and home by the lighting of candles on the eve of each day of the Hanukkah week.

One candle is lighted the first night, two the second night, and so on for eight days. The children receive gifts and play games during this period.

Following the kindling of lights in the home, a hymn is sung, "Maoz Zur Yeshuasi," "Stronghold, Rock of My Salvation."

The holiday dates from 165 B. C., when the Syrian Antiochus Epiphanes attempted to force Israel to adopt a pagan religion. The festival commemorates the date when the five sons of Mattathias of Modin threw off this oppression and restored the temple to monotheistic worship.

"Of course, cigarettes are a small thing, but, after all, they give me a lot of pleasure, and a cigarette like Chesterfield that you hear such good things about, must be good. Anyway, I've just bought my first package of Chesterfields, and I believe I'll find them just like the ads say — milder — taste better — pure — satisfy."

BASSETT CLAIMS ESTIMATED AT $1,500,000

Ex-Evangelist's Attorney Believes Estate Solvent; Widow Contesting Will

Some of the confusion attending the estate of Ira Bassett, late businessman evangelist, was cleared today with a statement by his attorney, who indicated that the Bassett estate should be able to satisfy claims against it of $1,500,000.

The attorney, Howard D. Montgomery, who acted for Bassett until his death, said:

"If Bassett had what I think he had he will pay all of his legitimate creditors in full. From information I have received so far I judge these claims amount to $1,500,000. Where this hidden wealth is has to be determined."

As to reports of fur deals involving millions, Montgomery added:

"There was one fur transaction eight years ago. Compared to the figures being talked of, it was a small sum. Bassett loaned approximately $50,000 on storage house receipts. As I understand the situation, there was a question some time afterwards if the duty had been paid on the furs. Bassett went to Washington personally, explained the situation and was in no way involved personally with any smuggling."

Attorney O. K. Eaton, who is representing creditors who are seeking Bassett's alleged hidden wealth, said today these claims ran from $100 to $1,000,000.

Bassett's will, which names Claude Sharp, Jr., oil and gas broker, as executor, is being contested by his widow, who contends her husband left a note in which he repudiates the document.

ARMED TAXICAB TOURIST HELD

Norman Reese, 19, toured the city in a taxicab while he pressed a gun on the back of the driver, it was testified in Central Police Court today. Reese was held for court on a charge of highway robbery and pistol toting.

Joseph Vircinski, cab driver, testified Reese hired him at Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station last night and when they arrived at Penn avenue and Twentieth street, robbed him of a dollar.

Boarding the cab again, Reese, the driver testified, compelled him to drive to the North Side, where he took Vircinski's cap and threatened to take the cab. On the driver's plea the cab was allowed to remain in possession of Vircinski, who was ordered to drive to the South Side, where Reese alighted. Vircinski met a patrolman and Reese was found nearby. When arrested he had a revolver, police said. He told the magistrate he had been out of work for a year.

EPSTEIN GIVES TAX CASE BOND

"Young Eppy," one-time prizefighter and widely known in gambling circles, posted $5,000 bond in Federal Court today for trial on charge of evading income tax. On the court records he is listed as Henry Epstein, 245 Dinwiddie street.

The bond, posted by B. B. Epstein, was on 36 acres in Ross township, once a part of the John A. Bell estate.

"Eppy" was indicted on November 13, charged with failing to file a tax report in 1925 on an income of $52,000. The tax would have been $5,679.

20 ROBBERIES LAID TO MAN

Alleged to have participated in more than a score of robberies throughout the North Boroughs, Robert Mattox, 25, Negro, of 28 Laurel street, Ben Avon, was held today by police for questioning in connection with the looting of the Espey drug store in California avenue, Avalon, early yesterday.

According to police, Mattox had $75, several checks, a quantity of cigarets and $15 worth of perfume in his possession when he was arrested by Patrolman Arthur Hallewell of Avalon, on a suspicious person charge early yesterday. Police say the money and articles were stolen from the drug store a few hours before. Robberies in Ben Avon, Bellevue and Avalon have been cleared by Mattox' arrest, police say they believe.

Relief among the unemployed of Western Pennsylvania will be discussed at a two-day course of workers engaged in administering relief which opened today at Carnegie Institute of Technology. The course is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Welfare, Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania and the Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania.

The opening session was to be addressed by Joanna C. Colcord, director of the charity organization department of the Russell Sage Foundation. Other speakers listed were Miss Helen Meyer, Carnegie Institute of Technology; Edwin Solenberger, president of the Pennsylvania Conference on Social Welfare; Miss Leah Dickinson and Mrs. Helen G. Tyson.

Man Beaten, Wife Held as Suspect

Louis Weinberg, 44, of 1715 Fifth avenue, is in Passavant Hospital, his skull believed fractured as a result, police said, of being struck on the head by an iron bar in the hands of his wife, Dora, during an argument at their home. The wife was held at Center Avenue Station as a suspicious person pending the outcome of her husband's injuries.

Ritchie Frees Boy, Aids 8 Orphaned By Tragedy

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Without waiting for the formalities of a parole, Gov. Ritchie ordered Harry C. Martin, warden of the city jail, to immediately release Frederick Wilkins, 19, so that he may return to his home to assist in caring for eight minor brothers and sisters made orphans Saturday when their father killed their mother and himself.

The youth was sent to jail November 10 for 40 days on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, for reckless driving and failure to stop after an accident, Ritchie said.

"This is not a parole. The boy is just being let out because he is badly needed at home. It is a situation that needs immediate action."

The Man in Action" Tomorrow night he will speak on "The Key to Your Power."

CASTING FIRM HERE SOLD

William McConway, Jr., president of the McConway & Torley Company, today announced that the company had been sold to Donald Symington and associates, of Baltimore. The business will be continued in Pittsburgh by the new interests under the name of the McConway & Torley Corporation with no material changes in existing personnel, McConway said.

The company has been identified with the industrial development of the city since 1868, when it was founded by the late William McConway, a pioneer in the manufacture of malleable iron and, later, steel castings. The company also developed and promoted the automatic coupler for cars and locomotives.

Donald Symington, president of the new corporation, has for years been general manager of various Symington companies engaged in the industry. He is chairman of the Locke Insulator Corporation, an associated company of the General Electric Company.

PEACE LEAGUE MEETS TOMORROW

MISS MARGARET MARSHALL — MISS LUCILE TODD — MISS JANE MARSHALL

The [illegible] sisters, recent debutantes and Miss Todd, who will be presented December 22 at a supper dance her parents, the William B. Todds, will give in the University Club, Oakland.

Johnson's Talk To Precede Luncheon

A meeting of the Women's International League for Peace will be held tomorrow morning at the Chamber of Commerce and will be addressed by Dr. Roswell Johnson, of the University of Pittsburgh. He is to speak at 11 o'clock on "The Manchurian Situation," and upon the conclusion of his talk luncheon will be served, both lecture and luncheon being open to the public, the former without fee.

Mrs. George Seibel, chairman of program, and her committee, Mrs. Waldo Amos, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. Joseph Silberstein, Mrs. Elizabeth Swartzel and Mrs. Joseph Schlitzman, have asked Mrs. William Cosel, of New Castle, to speak January 5 on the Paris Disarmament Conference. Another January speaker will be Dr. John Haynes Holmes, of New York, who will be guest of honor at a dinner meeting in the Chamber of Commerce on the twenty-fourth.

Upon recommendation of Mrs. Mildred Olmstead, of the National W. I. L., the local league has written President Hoover, urging him to take a firm stand in co-operating with the League of Nations in upholding the Kellogg pact by instructing Dawes to sit in with the Council.

Braddock Benefit

The first benefit planned by the Junior Woman's Club, of Braddock, will be a New Years dance and bridge party at the Knights of Columbus Hall on New Years Day. Mrs. Eugene Gardill has accepted the general chairmanship and will be assisted by Miss Mildred Cramer, Miss Rebecca Gibson, Mrs. G. T. McGreevy, Mrs. Edna Ruse, Mrs. Cecil Wilson and Miss Julia Gallarher.

The proceeds will be used for needy cases which have been personally investigated by a committee under the chairmanship of Miss Florence Davis. Prior to the benefit, five bridge parties will be held in the homes of members to finance the big affair.

Norman M. Clintock, photo-naturalist, will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Wonders of the Commonplace" at 11 o'clock the morning of January 8 at Pennsylvania College for Women. Another addition to the lecture group is Dr. Van der Leeuw, Dutch political scientist, who will talk on "The Fire of Creation" on Thursday of this week.

Gov. Wilbur C. Cross, of Connecticut, is to speak on December 8, his topic being "Phases of the Contemporary Novel." A Christmas carol program by Frank Speaight will be given December 17, and a talk on "Song and Laughter" by Arthur Guiterman will be an event of February 12. Cornelia Sorabji will discuss "The Position of Women in India" on February 23, and on March 8 Prof. Hughes Mearn will talk on "The Voice of the Individual Spirit." Dr. S. K. Ratcliffe will have "Impressions and Interpretations of Russia" as his topic when he speaks on March 15.

The December meeting of the Women's Association of the University of Pittsburgh will be held Wednesday evening in the Annex of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Dr. Thomas Shaw Arbuthnot will give an illustrated lecture on "The Game Fields of North America," and the Stephen Foster Quartet will sing in costume.

City Club Musicale

The guests of the Association for the evening will be Chancellor John G. Bowman and Mrs. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Tabor, Dr. and Mrs. Norman McClintock, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Stern, Carl B. Cass, Miss Helen Crawley and C. V. Hungerford.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. Winifred F. Perry and Mrs. Lewis E. Young will receive Thursday afternoon at the Woman's City Club, when the program is to be given by Edward Weiss. At the tea tables will be Mrs. George S. Baton, the president; two past presidents, Mrs. William Watson Smith and Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, and Mrs. A. S. F. Keister. Serving tea will be Mrs. John E. Nelson, Mrs. F. O. Keister, Mrs. James M. Dalbey, Mrs. Max Henry and Mrs. James E. Graham, and as ushers there will be a number of young daughters of the club: Mrs. Mary Phillips, Miss Peggy Nelson, Miss Alice Gundelfinger, Miss Betty Dalbey, Miss Jean Keister and Miss Mary Louise Waller.

STYLISTS DECREE ACCESSORIES OF LEATHER FOR WINTER WEAR

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 30 — Leather is the sole material for many of the newest accessories, just as it often provides the main item of trimming for frocks and coats. This certainly is a leather season and those who want something different for their accessories should be able to gratify their wishes this season. For leather has been most delightfully used by many of the leading designers here.

IT IS INTERESTING to reflect on the ingenuity of those whose mission it is to create a constant succession of novelties. Season after season they turn out new and delightful articles and adroitly sidestep the bizarre or the banal. This season there is much color to work with and so it is easy to brighten up the darkest dress and bring it up to date even if it isn't just fresh out of its wrappings of tissue paper. Patent leather is about the most popular of all the leathers now being used, but several new and surprising combinations are being worked out in different skins.

TODAY WE SHOW sketches of a new and interesting leather accessories by Valerie that are vividly youthful and amusing in shape and design. There is a collar, cuffs, belt, bag and buttonhole flower, all made of fine pin-seal in bright red trimmed with bands of black patent leather whipped to similar bands in white patent leather with red thread. The buckle tabs are of red pin-seal and the buckles are nickle. The bag has a zipper closing between two upright bands of the patent leather. The little flower is shaped rather like a small puffy upward tulip of which each petal is half black and half white patent leather, the center being formed of a tight little cone of red pin-seal. Also sketched is one of the very new crocheted chenille gloves by Heroies. These are made in various colors, but are particularly smart in dark green or very dark brown. One is beginning to see them everywhere.

Leola E. Swart Is Married to Indiana Man

Miss Leola Eleanor Swart, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Swart, of Homewood, became the bride of Herbert Vincent Webster, of Indiana, Pa., in a ceremony performed at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the Homewood Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Gallagher, pastor of the church, officiated at the double-ring service.

Miss Swart was given in marriage by her brother, Frank Swart, and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Anne Swart Hogan, as matron of honor. Mrs. Frank Lauinger Villasck, of Philadelphia, formerly of Pittsburgh, and Miss Anne Villasck, of Cumberland, Md., formerly of Pittsburgh, were bridesmaids. Miss Villasck is a sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Webster was graduated from the Homewood-Brushton High School and from Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburgh, and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. She was graduated from Indiana State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa., and is a member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

Following the ceremony a dinner for 40 guests was served at the home of the bride's mother, 7 Homewood avenue, Homewood. The

Tuesday Musical Club Members To Donate Canned Goods at Christmas Recital

Each member of the Tuesday Musical Club has been asked to bring one can of fruit or vegetables to the Christmas recital on December 15. The special program for this occasion has been arranged by Mrs. James Stephen Martin and Mrs. Carolyn St. John and will present the Christmas story in continuity, sung in costume by the Madrigal Singers of 20 voices. The music consists of rarely heard ancient music, newly transcribed.

The club's first December program is being heard this afternoon in Upper Memorial Hall. For January 5 a lecture recital by J. Fred Lissfelt, music editor of the Sun-Telegraph, and Henry Harris, pianist, is scheduled, and on the thirteenth the club will sponsor its third annual program in Carnegie Music Hall, in honor of the birth of Stephen Collins Foster. A miscellaneous program is being arranged for January 19.

The Club Choral will hold a bridge and musical-tea in the home of Mrs. C. H. Aufhammer, Farragut street, on Thursday afternoon as a benefit for the Stephen Foster Memorial, to which the choral has pledged $5,000. More than one half has been raised and as a special incentive to the choral, Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman has offered a like amount if the choral makes its quota in five years. Elsie Breese Mitchel, soprano, and Patti Rude Baldridge, contralto, accompanied by Mrs. H. D. Everett, will present the program at four o'clock after which tea will be served. Mrs. Aufhammer is chairman of the choral.

Important business will be discussed and plans for the Christmas party completed at tonight's meeting of the Welsh Women Women's Welsh Club in the Hotel Henry. The program feature of the meeting will be a short address by the Rev. W. H. Williams, pastor of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, who will speak on the great Welsh warrior, Owain Glyndwr. Mrs. Fred W. Jones will lead community singing.

On Wednesday, the annual district meeting of the club will be held at the Fort Pitt Hotel both morning and afternoon. Luncheon will be served in the gold room, with Mrs. Nell Hill, president of the Women's Welsh Club of Aliquippa, presiding. The musical program is in charge of Mrs. Brownwen James of the same club. Mrs. J. C. Sutton, president of the New Kensington Club, will preside at the morning session and will be assisted by Mrs. Pearl Davis, president of the Carnegie Club. Mrs. Erskine Maiden, of Youngstown, national president, will speak. Miss Margaret J. Gwyer, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. M. J. McGeary, of New Kensington, both national trustees, will also be present. The group includes clubs from Homestead, McKeesport, New Kensington, Aliquippa, Carnegie and Pittsburgh.

In addition to the regular Monday morning lectures, the Twentieth Century Club's calendar for next month includes an address on "Light and Vision," by William H. Horton under auspices of the current interests committee on the tenth and on the seventeenth the music and art committee will sponsor a Christmas celebration in which the club choral will take part.

On Wednesday afternoon at the Congress of Clubs, the Allegheny County Council, American Legion, will have as its guest speaker Mrs. Fleming Minck, western director of the State Department of Pennsylvania. The program will be furnished by the North Boroughs Unit, No. 116.

* * *

The Kelton Parent-Teacher meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium. Miss Maude Aldrich, field secretary of the Federal Motion Picture Council, is to be the guest speaker and the musical program will be presented by Bernice Loftus, of the Neighborhood School of Music. Tea will be served, with Mrs. George Lowther and Mrs. R. J. Grimm pouring.

WCTU of Hazelwood Meets Tomorrow Night

Hazelwood Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet in monthly session tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Amy Leslie Johnston, avenue. The Hazelwood union will join with the Bridgeville, Dormont, Mt. Lebanon and Lincoln Haven unions in celebrating Mrs. Rebecca Sheriff's ninety-second birthday anniversary in the Methodist Episcopal Home, Mt. Lebanon, on Thursday.

The Hazelwood Loyal Temperance Legion has scheduled a meeting for 4 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Johnston Avenue Baptist Church.

Miss Jessie Schuler Weds Thomas McMannus

Miss Jessie Schuler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schuler, of Forest Grove, Pa., became the bride of Thomas McMannus, of Castle Shannon, on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Nobis's Cathedral, with the Rev. Leo Schlueter officiating. Miss Frances Schuler was the maid of honor, and Michael Travers served as best man.

Alice Eleanor Crist Weds A. S. Christner

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crist, of Thornburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Eleanor Crist, to Alan Shirley Christner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel D. Christner, of McKeesport, which was solemnized November 26, in the First Presbyterian Church, Crafton.

Mr. Fairbanks

"That won't happen for a while at least," she said. "Last year there was a gay, splendid spirit in the New York theater. This year it is very different. Everybody is uncertain.

"I want most to make a good picture," she said. "And I'm aiming for one with so little dialogue that it will be successful abroad as well as here. I think there is entirely too much gab in pictures anyway. We should get back to the old method. Like 'Cimarron' for instance. The only dialogue I remember about this film is that

Things I Never Noodle Now

(Without the permission of the copyright owners!)

That when a child is two years of age he is half as tall as he will be when he is full-grown. (Don't give yourself a headache.)

That N. Y. clergymen only pay $3 monthly for their phones.

That a man who ran for Sheriff in Jackson, Mich., had as his claim to distinction the fact that he is pappy of quadruplets.

That in Detroit the Fisher Bros. have built one of the most beautiful office buildings in the world, but they have their offices across the street in the General Motors edifice.

That blind war vets do not pay New York state taxes.

That the right side of your face is easier to shave if you drive a cab, because the exposed left side toughens the beard. So they argue.

That Maine water is the best for a hang-over. (They must mean providing it is diluted with three parts Scotch or rye.)

That Adelaide Keim played "Hamlet" in Baltimore (Md.) stock about 30 yrs. ago. She was a plump "Hamlet," but played it well.

That the juices from a raw potato and a raw onion taste alike, but that the odor from one makes you think they taste different.

That when a grizzly bear is born it weighs slightly under a pound and is completely devoid of hair. (A-a-ah! Ain't it kay-yute?)

That 99 per cent of the bears are right-pawed due to the fact that the left-front paw is shorter than the right-front one.

That bear cubs are born when the mother is sleeping!!! And when she wakes up—why, there they are!!!

That there are 1,955 dailies and 16,000 weeklies in the U. S.

That killer snaps foretell the weather. If it is going to rain the snaps get limp; if cold or clear they remain crisp. (New to me.)

That at Lake Placid, where the Olympic winter games are to be held in Feb., they have ice and snow from early October to May—yet they are building a huge indoor arena with artificial ice.

That Africa has nearly 700 dialects. (Hollywood to hear the story-tellers argue it has more than N. Y.)

That Spain has fewer daily papers than any other country.

That the tongue of a whale has been known to produce a ton of oil. (Which is a little less than some guys I know can produce.)

That Great Britain controls 21 of every 100 square miles of the earth's surface.

That whisky is said to have derived its name from the Irish usquebaugh—water of life.

That George Washington I of our c... had red hair.

That in Stuyvesant High School there is a sign which reads: "In case of fire—report at once to the office." (Oh, yeah?)

That visitors must wear rubber soled shoes before entering the Akron tire plant to prevent sparks, etc. (Is that a Goodyear gag, too?)

That several months ago The Pathfinder, one of the more entertaining weeklies, spent considerable time digging up sappy remarks of notables about the depression. To compare them later on and show how stupid people are. This stuff, Pathfinder argues, was borrowed by another publisher and tagged "O, Yeah!"

That another book claiming to have the second largest circulation (next to the Bible) is The Boy Scouts' Manual.

That the first woman employed by the U. S. Gov't was Jennie Douglas in 1862. Her duty was to cut and trim currency.

That most words beginning with "X" are pronounced as commencing with "Z," except, of course, you silly-willy—Xmas!

That the Council for Religious Education in Battle Creek, Mich., recently decided that Santa was a myth (we always thought he was a mythter) and barred the mention of his name in Sabbath schools.

That almost all the cigarets made in the U. S. today are rolled in paper imported from France, Texas Guinan's favorite country.

That champagne is held in the lowest esteem among the world's fine wines by the better French wine-makers, et al.

That Napoleon used up 60 bottles of perfume each month. (Not gifts to gels, either!)

That most people mispronounce premier and premiere.

That silver is legal tender up to $10. If a person refuses to accept it in payment of debts, interest ceases from the day it was offered.

That London stands only ninth in property value among the leading cities.

That the largest number of people in N. Y. last year died from heart trouble, the second largest from cancer, the third from pneumonia and the fourth from nephritis! (Ain't I the cheerful one, though?)

Swimmer as Movie Ape

The greatest variety of animals ever assembled together for motion picture use have been obtained for "Tarzan," the Edgar Rice Burroughs jungle adventure story being made into a movie by W. S. Van Dyke.

This large collection includes many rare African specimens. Among them are a large herd of elephants, a dozen hippopotamuses, zebras, gnus, antelopes, deer, James buck, sable antelope, brindle gnu, spotted hyenas, hundreds of monkeys, baboons and gorillas, and a dozen man-eating lions and leopards.

Johnny Weissmuller, world champion swimmer, has been signed to play the title role of Tarzan. He will be required to ride on the backs of elephants, swing through the trees with trained apes and work in proximity to lions and horned gnus.

Build Circus City for Marion Davies

An entire circus city is being erected by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for Marion Davies' new starring vehicle, "Polly of the Circus," in which she plays the part of a ballet dancer-pantomimist. For the production a complete tent show with cook tents and living quarters is being reared in a suburban locality.

Bellamy and Hobbes With Stanwyck

Columbia has assigned prominent roles to Ralph Bellamy and Halliwell Hobbes for its latest Barbara Stanwyck vehicle, tentatively entitled "Forbidden," which was written specially for the star. It is being directed by Frank Capra. Adolphe Menjou, Dorothy Peterson, Florence Wix and Claude King are featured in the cast.

Stitches!

James Kirkwood and Mae Marsh find that life, like the sewing machine before them, is a stitch-at-a-time proposition and that the completed pattern is a mixture of laughter and tears. It's a scene from "Over the Hill," opening Thursday in the Stanley.

Mr. Dix Does A Little Spying

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The movie-maxim: after a spate of World War drama, suddenly remember there was a Civil War. The result is "secret service," current picture at the Warner.

This film is a ghost from the old silent days. And even though the ghost talks it doesn't improve him much.

Richard Dix is the hero. He has the role of a Union soldier who goes a-spying among the Confederates. They spy him, too, and for a time it seems a firing squad will turn him into a corpse.

But right at this point, it looks as if the director ran in and shouted: "You can't shoot him, he's the hero."

Anyway Dix isn't shot. Something happens in a nick or two of time and he is saved for the heroine, played by Shirley Grey.

Of course, she is a belle of the Old South.

Conrad Nagel to Make Stage Appearance

Conrad Nagel and Joan Marsh have arrived in New York and will follow the example set earlier in the season by Polly Moran and William Haines, having completed arrangements to appear in person in Loew theaters in the larger cities. Nagel and Miss Marsh will be seen together in a playlet especially written for their use by Edgar Allen Woolf.

MUSIC

PROGRAM

Quartet in G	Mozart
Three Novelettes	Bridge
Quintet Op. 44	Schumann

The Yost String Quartet gave its opening concert yesterday afternoon in Schenley ballroom. The smaller auditorium was used, an astonishingly fine salon for such intimate music. The program was conventional. It cannot be otherwise for chamber music—but the music of Frank Bridge was heard for the first time here and proved exceedingly bright and comprehensible at first hearing.

Mr. Lissfelt

The concert served to introduce a new violinist, George Humphrey, the other members of the ensemble are the same as last season. Whether to give the newcomer a special introduction or because this new man has something exceptional to contribute to the ensemble, the quartet's music yesterday seemed better than we have ever before heard it. The Mozart Quartet is a fine test, and in every respect showed improvement over last year's playing. Bridge's music is vague but scintillating, full of merry contrasts; the presto was unusually successful with these players.

In the Schumann Quintet Marian Clark Bollinger played the piano part, and again demonstrated her sterling qualities as pianist. Her outstanding characteristics are first of all a good sense of ensemble playing, finely marked rhythms, and a sparkling scale. There might have been more repose throughout the quintet, a little more delicacy during transitional passages, a shortcoming of the quartet rather than of the solo pianist. This quintet is one of the loveliest of Schumann works, and we cannot hear it too often. Yesterday's performance was most pleasing.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The only legitimate attraction of the week, "Private Lives," comedy about a divorce that didn't stick, opens in the Nixon tonight. Otto Kruger and Madge Kennedy play the two who fight it out. Wednesday and Saturday are day-time showdays.

Next week the Nixon stage will be tread by folks from Dubuque adventuring in Paris. Their actions, titled "As Husbands Go," comprise the comedy by Rachal Crothers that is presented as the third play in the Theater Guild subscription season. It is the property of that rising young Guild associate, John Golden.

From today on throughout the week, activities in the Alvin will be confined to servicing the public in its hunger for tickies for that fairly well-known entertainment with moosic, "Blossom Time." It comes to the Sixth street opry house next week. The blossom timers will include Kathryn Reece, J. Charles Gilbert, Joseph F. Wilkins and Robert Lee Allen.

Small Timer says kissing is something that requires cheek on the part of the boy and lips on the part of the party of the second part.

Olga Baclanova, of the fillims, will play the part of the Russian dancer in "Grand Hotel" when it is produced on the Los Angeles stage, opening Christmas night.

Margalo Gillmore, prominent stage actress, now appearing in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," in New York, has been signed to work in a Nancy Carroll starring film, "Wayward," to be made in the East. . . Bowing in as Warner stars, Ruth Chatterton and Ray Francis will be seen respectively in "The Rich Are Always With Us" and "The Hungry Wife." . . . Maurice Chevalier's next picture will be "One Hour With You." . . . Fred Stone's new show, "Smiling Faces," will make its bow in Springfield, Mass., December 3.

Small Timer says the thing to do when baby swallows a nickel these days is to take him to a banker instead of a doctor.

Joan Marsh is Heroine In Football Film

Joan Marsh will have the feminine lead and Natalie Moorhead an important role in the football film, "Yellow," temporary title, in which Jack Holt and Richard Cromwell appear together again for the second time as a featured team. Robert Alden and John Wayne have already been signed for leading roles.

Say "GOOD BYE" to

Colds, Headaches, Sour Stomach, Acid Indigestion and Other Common Ailments

Try— ALKA-SELTZER

These remarkable Effervescent Tablets make a sparkling alkaline drink that gives you two-fold relief. First—it relieves the pain and discomfort and—Second, it corrects excess acidity, the common cause of most of your everyday ills. Find out about this new and better way—this safe, harmless way to say "Good-Bye" to most of your everyday aches and pains.

ALKA-SELTZER Tablets Make a Pleasant, Sparkling Anti-Acid Drink

Gives Amazing Relief

When you suffer with Headaches and Colds—Sour Stomach and Indigestion—Rheumatism and Neuralgia—when you feel tired-out, run-down, dull and depressed—the chances are that too much acid in your system is the real cause of the trouble. Scientists tell us that to keep healthy and vigorous our bodies must be slightly more alkaline than acid. Too much rich food, over eating, overwork or over indulgence usually produces an excess acid condition in your body. Then your resistance goes down—vitality is lowered and you become a victim of stomach disorders, headaches, colds and the many other everyday ills so common to us all. (2)

Now science has developed a remarkable Effervescent Alkaline Tablet that quickly corrects this excess acid condition. It's called ALKA SELTZER, because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink that first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then corrects the cause (excess acid). There is nothing on the market like ALKA SELTZER. It is a scientific product—harmless to take. There is nothing equal to it for giving prompt and effective relief for most of your common ailments.

An ALKA SELTZER Tablet in a glass of water makes a sparkling, effervescent drink. It relieves pain—it corrects excess acid—it sweetens the stomach and it soon makes you feel your normal healthy self again.

Don't fail to try ALKA-SELTZER if you want to experience the most welcome relief you have ever had for most of your everyday aches and pains.

Take Interest in Life and You'll Find Happiness

She's so lonely. The nights are a dreary waste.

Aren't there any dances? Yes, but she doesn't like the men who go—so she stays away.

How about clubs? She might find some, but she "doesn't believe they would interest" her.

In fact, though she's still young and intelligent and could be pretty, nothing interests her. And then she wonders why life seems so flat!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I have often thought of writing to you, but each time I've started to I've torn up the letter. However, I have now reached the point where I must tell someone about myself and try to find out what is wrong with me.

"I feel that you are a friend even though I do not actually know you, so I am finally telling you my story. I am 21 years old, have a secondary school education and am employed as a stenographer. I don't earn so very much, but manage to clothe myself, as I live with my folks and am an only child. But we are not wealthy. We all just manage to make ends meet.

MEN GO AWAY

"I seem to lack personality. I am attractive looking, a little tall (5 feet 7) and weigh about 150 pounds. I seem to attract men, but only momentarily. After a while in my company they just disappear.

"I am a little self-conscious, and do get quite sarcastic sometimes. There are times, however, when I do try to be congenial, but that doesn't seem to help.

"I seem to be in a rut and can't get out of it. I have dropped all my friends and am sort of resigned to my fate. I have one girl friend, but she is worse even than I am.

"I would like to meet a man I could care for and ultimately get married, but I don't know how. I'm ever going to do it. I don't go to dances because I don't like the men who frequent dance halls. There aren't any clubs in my neighborhood, and even if there were, I believe they wouldn't interest me.

LAZY FEELING

"What can I do? How can I get rid of that lazy, inert feeling I have. You who have been through so much, surely can devise some plan for me.

"I look bold. I use plenty of so-called 'war paint,' but underneath it all I am just a 'fraid-cat. I am at the Zero Hour, waiting for God Knows What. So I just stay home, go to an occasional movie, buy lots of clothes, but have nowhere to use them. Please write an article for girls like me. I'll be waiting for it.

"What is wrong, anyway?

EULALIE."

Why do you get so little out of life?

Because you put so little into it.

Why do you find people so uninteresting?

Because you have really no interest in them.

Actually, you know nothing of life, nothing of people. You are absorbed in only one subject, and that subject is Eulalie. You have never passed beyond the contemplation of yourself.

For we're none of us sufficient unto ourselves, little girl. We must all of us leave ourselves and go out into other selves, into other lives.

Why do other girls find romance and adventure, excitement and fun, and serious fine purpose in life?

MUST EARN HAPPINESS

Because they go after them, Eulalie. They stop thinking about themselves. They stop brooding over themselves. They forget themselves and become absorbed in other people. They put aside their prejudices and fears and conceit, and study other people as they'd study some fascinating new country.

And so, because they seek Life, they get Life.

Warm up to Life, and Life will warm up to you!

It will be hard work at first. You'll still be all prickly with Self. You'll still judge every new person, every new situation, by its effect on you. But if you work for a bigger life, you'll get it.

You don't get your office salary unless you work for it; do you? Life is just like any other business. It won't pay you anything unless you earn it.

And when you have earned it, you'll find you're so interested that you'll forget all about being 'lazy' or 'inert.' And you'll find Love some day, too—when you're ready for it.

Hard to Figure Who Is the Winner in This Cross-Love Puzzle, Says Fay King

By FAY KING.

It's hard to figure just who is the winner in a certain cross-love puzzle.

It's like this—

But along comes a beautiful blonde, with two husbands to her credit, and vamps him away from the brunette. That would seem to make her the winner.

But the beautiful brunette dashes off and captures herself another handsome husband. And as he was supposed to be engaged to another beautiful blonde with two husbands to her credit, it seems that the beautiful brunette has not lost any ground in the love game.

In fact she is still a husband ahead.

Bill's Case of "Calf Love" Injects Bit of Humor in Trying Situation

There was no mistaking the note in Bill's voice when he told Marion that she was not to do any dirty work like cleaning the fish which the party of young people had just brought up from the bay. It was that of a boy in the throes of his first adolescent admiration of a girl.

I saw Harry and Dicky firmly repressing the smiles which were quirking the corners of their mouths; saw Lillian compressing her lips, though not from amusement. But there was no room in my heart for other amusement or disapproval, only an overwhelming tenderness for Bill.

To the unthinking "calf love," as the country folk used to call it, is a colossal joke. In reality it is something so beautiful and idealistic that it should be treated with reverance instead of ridicule, at least outwardly.

Marion's reply was so prompt, so sweetly earnest and enthusiastic that I did not wonder at her mother's startled scrutiny of her. "What is this, anyway?" that look said, but in another second, I saw that she had realized, with me, how cleverly her young daughter was managing the situation and putting self-conscious Bill at his ease. That her eyes at the same time were conveying the impression of appreciating the romantic admiration of the boy was not, I felt sure, a deliberate thing, but sprang from a feminine instinct ages old.

"Oh, that's awfully sweet of you, Bill, but we'd feel terribly woof, welching on you like that."

"Don't lose your opportunity!"—she caroled the absurd song. "If men of any age, anywhere have a yen for hard work, don't discourage 'em. And remember, all that packing and pressing we have to do. Thanks for the 'lift in the car,' old deahs,"—she waved a careless hand at her brothers. "You've saved our lives, and we shall report you both for the Carnegie medal. Come on, Marion, let's go! My heart's in my shoe soles when I think of that room upstairs."

They hurried through the kitchen door, Marion flashing a smile at Bill who stood looking after her with so fatuous an expression that Harry Underwood was only restained from a chuckling comment by his wife's fierrely warning look.

"If someone will kindly explain to me the meaning of the word 'woof,' she said with ostentatious weariness as the door closed after them. I've heard it this summer until I'm a candidate for an asylum. Hank did you understand that spiel of Marion's?"

As a censor of language, Lil Dicky began with a chuckle, but I frowned him down for I knew she was talking only to distract attention from Bill.

"I know," she said, "but 'spiel' is so ancient it will be in the dictionary pretty soon. 'Woof' is something else again, for it seems to have about a dozen different meanings, if anything that this modern generation says means anything. Speak up, Hank, what do you know about it?"

"Nothing much," Hank returned a bit scornfully. "It's a girl's word, and they've run it into the ground. They say a thing's woof when they like it a lot, and when they've got a grouch on it. You never can tell."

"There you are, Lil," Dicky's tone was brisk. "Take your choice. And might I respectfully suggest that you 'wimmen' are cluttering up the place around here. There's a job of fish cleaning to be done in record time, and we need room. Besides, Madge, are you sure you ought to be out of bed? Katherine told me you were all right, but——"

"Her diagnosis was perfect," I told him, laughing, "but we're going to leave you anyway. Yes, Lillian," as she turned impatiently from the doorway. "Coming."

I knew the reason for her haste. She was like a child in her eagerness to see the surprise of her idolized young daughter over the completed work of packing and pressing. But she did not have to reach the upper floor to reap the reward of her labors. We heard excited voices as we came into the living room, and half way up the stairs we were met and fairly smothered in hugs as the girls voiced their delight.

"Mums! Auntie Madge! Oh, how perfectly spiffy! Everything done! How you must have worked! But you make us feel so beastly."

"I had nothing to do with it," I explained hastily. "I've been in bed all day. Mrs. Bickett is the other guilty person."

"I'll find Aunt Katherine and hug her properly," Mary said. "But I didn't give you a hug amiss, Auntie Madge. You would have been in it too if they hadn't made you go to bed."

I don't think so, Mary," I said, but she only made a face at my disclaimer. Lillian's face was serious, however, and the glance she shot at me held interested inquiry. I wondered if I fancied that it held resentment as well.

Household Hints

To prevent gasoline leaving a mark when it is used for cleaning, apply it with a sponge dipped out of hot water.

The quickest way of draining water from cooked vegetables is to pour them into a wire sieve and give the sieve several shakes over the kitchen sink. All water will drain off and the vegetables may then be buttered and seasoned and placed in a heated vegetable dish for serving.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

There's a lot of beauty gabble going on that isn't true. For instance, if you take facial treatments you don't have to continue them for years so your face won't go wrinkly. That's all nonsense.

Wash your face the minute you get home, and don't go to bed with cosmetics on.

Rubbing a skin with a wrinkle-removing cream won't send it away. A wrinkle is a small scar which, when it comes to a head will expel its contents and then will heal.

Age spots aren't produced by the liver.

And puffs under the eyes and chin are proof of the presence of a disease of the kidneys. Sorry to tell you, that's all.

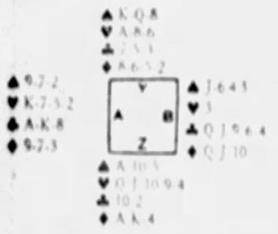
An Elusive Hand

Many players view Sidney S. Lenz somewhat in the light of being the Mephistopheles of Bridge. When it comes to the play of a puzzling hand none of the best fighters have anything over Sidney (Himself) S. Lenz. A recent hand well illustrates his own brand of humor. The holdings are given in full below.



Mr. Lenz first states Z played the hand at hearts. He lost two club tricks and trumped the third. Then Z led his Q and J of trumps on the last lead B failed to follow. Z next cashed three spade tricks and two diamond tricks, putting B in the lead with a third round of diamonds. Whatever B led to the twelfth trick Z would trump with his 10. A held the K and 7 of trumps, while dummy had the lone ace of hearts and one diamond. If A outruffed Z with his K, dummy's A will win the trick, then Z's 9 will pick up the last trick. If A allows Z's 10 to win the twelfth trick, dummy's A must win the last trick. Mr. Lenz states that Z can win four-odd against any defense.

Now comes a sample of the Lenz humor. After careful study some bright player notes that B can defeat the hand by discarding one of his diamonds on the declarer's second lead of trump, leaving the 9 of diamonds in A's hand high for the third round of that suit. If this is done (provided Z plays his hand that way) A will win the third round of diamonds, then pull dummy's ace of trump with a low lead of hearts, making A's K safe, and holding Z down to three-odd. But, of course, Sidney is ready for just that situation. He will say: 'Oh! You mean that normal play will not be followed, that the whole hand after the third trick is to be played double-dummy?' Then he will play the hand as shown below.

Give A two club tricks. Z will trump the third trick. He will lead his Q of hearts to remove the trump held by B, then stop. Next will follow three spade leads by Y-Z. Then must come three diamond leads, upon the third round of that suit B will be in the lead. B must lead from his lone spade or two clubs. Z holds only three trump (J-10-9). A has three trump also (K-7-5); Y has two trump (A-8) and the lone 8 of diamonds. Z will trump whatever B leads and by no possible means can A avoid losing the last three tricks.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wearing the Rings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife and I recently had quite an argument regarding the correct form of wearing rings. My wife claims that a lady, when she marries, wears both the engagement ring and the wedding ring on the third finger of her left hand.

I maintain that this is bad form and claim that the wedding ring only should be worn on the left hand, and the engagement ring worn as a dress ring on the right hand. Who is correct? R. F.

It is customary to wear both the engagement ring and the wedding ring on the same finger, the third finger of the left hand. The wedding ring should always be put on the finger first, and the engagement ring over it. That is why, when the brides goes to the altar, she wears her engagement ring on her right hand until the wedding ring is put on the third finger. Then she changes the engagement ring to the left hand, putting it over the wedding ring.

Of course the rings needn't be worn this way. They may be worn separately, but I never see them worn separately. The idea of the spiritual union of the engagement and the marriage would indicate that the symbols of these the two rings, would be worn together.

Formal Weddings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When a prayer book is used by the bride at her wedding, is it necessary to have a bouquet also? If so, when does she use it?

2. At a formal evening church wedding must the bride's mother wear a hat?

3. For a wedding next month of what material should the bridesmaids' dresses be made?

Interested.

1. No, if the bride carries a prayer book she does not carry a bouquet also. Sometimes, however, she has a narrow ribbon falling from the pages of the prayer book, and in this, at frequent intervals are attached orange blossoms or tiny roses. This shower effect from the prayer book is very effective.

2. This depends on the denomination of the church, and the rules of that denomination. Some denominations are very strict about women wearing the head covered in church.

3. Very light weight velvet is a very popular fabric this season for both bridal dresses and for attendants' dresses. Satin, too, is very popular, and very effective. And various kinds of lovely crepes.

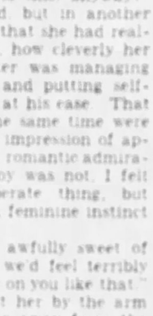
How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Diabetic Child Should Be Taught Remedial Care

A recent health survey indicates there is a marked increase in the occurrence of diabetes. This statement is not so alarming as one might believe at first. I say this because the number of deaths from diabetes has certainly decreased in the past decade.



Dr. Copeland

At one time diabetes was looked upon with dread. But with the discovery of insulin, the disease is not feared as it used to be.

The control of diabetes is mainly the control of the diet. When a strict diet fails to overcome the effects of the disease, insulin is used. Not every case of diabetes requires the giving of insulin.

One type of the disease has been positively puzzling to the medical profession. It is that form found in children. This is spoken of as "infantile diabetes."

Undoubtedly there are more cases among children than is commonly believed.

Years ago when a child was known to have diabetes little hope was held for his recovery. With the discovery of insulin this attitude has completely changed.

Many cases of diabetes, particularly in children under five years of age, make remarkable progress under simple diabetic management. Insulin, too, has saved the lives of many children, enabling them to continue the activities of normal children.

There is no reason to look upon a diabetic child as seriously handicapped. Once the child has been taught all he should know concerning his ailment, his future health is assured. If instruction is given in childhood and carefully followed, uncomfortable complications in later life will not occur.

It is interesting to note that most children who have diabetes are mentally well developed. For some reason the condition is most likely to be found where there is only one child in the family.

It has been noticed by some students of the subject that many diabetic children are exceedingly tall. However, children who have this disease and are not given the proper attention tend to be stunted in growth as they grow older.

The signs of diabetes in children are the same as those found in the adult. Too many times these signs are completely ignored and the disease is overlooked. It is not discovered until there has been an examination of the urine. Then an excessive amount of sugar is found.

Rigid supervision of the eating habits of these children is imperative. The diet must be carefully prescribed by a physician. If the sugar in blood and urine is not decreased by a proper diet it is probable insulin will be prescribed.

The results of insulin treatment in such cases has been quite satisfactory. The little patients show normal development and often become conspicuously healthy adults.

TROJAN BLOW FACTOR IN IRISH FALL down that threw with [illegible] mentally and [illegible] ball, in which [illegible] feated Southern California, Army, also [illegible] lost two.

AT [illegible] victory [illegible] football [illegible] Schwartz, [illegible] tance [illegible]

And behind that great football there must have been a spirit even greater. On paper the Cadets didn't rate a chance in the world against a normal Notre Dame team and to come out and make a successful fight in the face of odds that had been pronounced hopeless by practically every critic in the country called for hearts of the stoutest kind as well as a perfect gridiron performance. It was a triumph that bespoke true soldiers.

Grat[illegible] against Notre Dame and [illegible] being held [illegible] here. It is also [illegible] Panthers with a 12-[illegible] Dame [illegible]

THAT WASN'T THE only development of Saturday to show the uncertainty of football. Purdue had been beaten by Wisconsin, Wisconsin had been beaten by Minnesota, and Minnesota had been snowed under by Northwestern, a team that had tied Notre Dame, yet Purdue turned in and gave Northwestern its only defeat of the season, 7 to 0. Texas Christian spoiled the clean slate of Southern Methodist by holding them to a scoreless tie, and Penn State, after losing seven games in a row and eight out of nine for the season, suddenly rose and smote Lehigh, 31 to 0. All of which tends to show again that in a sport where the team spirit and tuning and conditions in general are different from week to week, comparative scores and previous performances don't mean a thing.

Dana X. Bible

THOUGH NEBRASKA TOOK a terrific lacing from Pitt, the Huskers and their popular coach, Dana X. Bible, made a fine impression here. Local fans are still talking about the spirit shown by the Westerners which evidenced that Bible has the ability to instill a real love for the game in his players.

Even in the 15-minute workout on the day before the game, not a man was loafing, and every player did his particular bit of work with a zest. The Panthers themselves are willing to bear testimony to the ruggedness and never-say-die spirit of the Huskers in the game. The visitors were still tackling fiercely and recklessly with the score 40 to 0 against them. Jock Sutherland offered to let them shorten the game five minutes but they spurned the proposal.

IT WAS MUCH like the spirit of the Pitt eleven in the Notre Dame battle. With the score 25 to 12 against them and only a few minutes to go, the Panthers were still trying. Jess Quatse was Pitt's captain and Pitt had already had its allotted three time-outs in the half.

Rip Collins, Quatse's broom pal, huffed to the Greenbaggers and asked to take an extra time-out. Quatse's answer will live for some time. "Like hell I will, Rip," he roared. "If you think I can't take time out myself, you're crazy, but we can't give these guys five cents. It's this sort of spirit that makes Pitt-Nebraska games real battles and insures good relations between the schools for years to come."

WHEN PENN STATE comes to Pittsburgh next fall to resume its old place as the Thanksgiving Day attraction at the Stadium, seven of the players of 1931 will be missing. That number of seniors passed out of the Lion football picture with the playing of the Lehigh game in Philadelphia Saturday. They are Capt. George Lasich, fullback, of Clairton; Stanley Stempeck, tackle, of Wilmerding; Johnny Wahl, guard, of Beaver Falls; Bill McMillen, tackle, of Punxsutawney; Bob Snyder, quarterback, of Sunbury; Tom Curry, guard, of Danville, and Phil Mooney, halfback, of New York.

WHILE THEY HAD not met in 16 years prior to Saturday's charity game Penn State and Lehigh are among the oldest of football rivals. The first game in their series was played in 1888. Saturday's meeting was the twelfth on the list.

From 1915 to 1921, the longest stretch for continuous play, the series was remarkable in its scoring results. Each team was blanked only once in that string of seven contests. The only tie game in the series was played in 1920, 7 to 7.

THAT ERWIN RUDOLPH, of Cleveland, present world's pocket billiard champion, will retain his title in the annual championship tournament staged in Philadelphia today with 12 players competing is the prediction of Charles (Cowboy) Weston, veteran cueist visiting in Pittsburgh.

Rudolph is not only a remarkable player, but he's always in great shape, Weston said. He takes the best of care of himself, his habits are perfect, and he keeps at the top of his game by constant practice. I know from recent observation with him that he is in his best stride right now, and I'm picking him to beat the field for the title just as he did a year ago."

Cowboy Weston

ARMY, PURDUE SCORE BIG UPSETS

College Leaders

BY JESS CARVER

ARMY NATION'S TOAST

The big upsets of Saturday saw Army whip Notre Dame and Purdue take Northwestern, while [illegible] games of slightly lesser import, Minnesota ran over Ohio State and Stanford put on the power to annihilate Dartmouth. The Big Green was conceded at least an even chance with Pop Warner's Indians, who had been none too impressive in previous exhibitions.

Only three elevens of big-league proportions have managed to slip through their campaigns undefeated. They are Tulane, Southern Methodists and Bucknell. Bucknell played three ties, and the Mustangs also have a deadlock marring their record.

Tulane with Washington State yet to be played, would appear to have the best chance of receiving the Rose Bowl bid. Had Northwestern not been beaten by Purdue, the Purple, too, would have figured in the picture, along with Pitt. It is hard to see, though, how the Big Ten could have reversed itself and permitted the Evanston eleven to accept the bid for the Rose Tournament game is not strictly a charity proposition and the conference has ruled against any of its members participating in post-season games unless they are charity affairs.

PITT STILL IN

Pitt must not be counted out of the Coast figuring. The Panthers are very popular in California, despite their two previous defeats there, and besides, the Rose Tourney committee never has been anxious to schedule southern elevens. The boys from the South, for some reason or other, do not draw as well as those from the East.

A year ago Tech practically was assured prior to its game with Notre Dame that it would be invited out if the Irish were beaten, and this year the hint was dropped where Pitt could pick it up that if Notre Dame was beaten, or the game close, and the Panthers finished at the top in the East, they'd be asked to make the journey to Pasadena again.

Washington State's record to date has been nothing over which to cheer, but then Tulane has met only about two rugged opponents, Auburn and Georgia, and may find the task of taking the Staters difficult.

The Army-Notre Dame game provided the big thrill of the sea-

County Courses To Be Closed After Today

Today is the last day golfers of Allegheny County will be permitted to play at the links in the North and South Parks.

Director of Parks Paul B. Ritz has announced, through John J. Burke, city office manager of the parks, that golf play will cease for the season at both parks after today.

It had been anticipated that the county would fall in line with the city, which last month ordered the Schenley Park course to be kept in play throughout the winter months.

The county links probably are being closed because of the poor conditions of the playing turf. After a good start last spring, the courses appear to have been steadily on the down-grade. At South Park 18 holes on the links have been playable for only short periods at a time.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY. THE MYSTERIOUS MOVING MOUNTAIN—On July 24, 1925, Sheep Mountain, in the Jackson Hole country of Wyoming, slid down across the channel of Grovont River, forming a lake one and one-half miles wide and three miles long, which was named Catastrophe Lake. Two years later, on May 18, 1927, it moved again, releasing the waters of the lake and resulting in a flood that almost wiped out the town of Kelly, Wyo. The cause of these periodic mountain movements is that the loose formation of the earth permits the infiltration of snow and ice and with the coming of the spring thaws the formation will not hold its own weight.

TOMORROW: THE RED CROSS.

GEORGE SIGNS ONE-YEAR CONTRACT

Dreyfuss did not need to make any official announcement.

He timed his approach in such a manner that he entered the elevator and reached Dreyfuss' office without being seen by any newspapermen. As soon as the newspapermen saw Gibby they did not need to be told anything else.

Gibson disclosed that he arrived in town mysteriously this morning after being instructed by Owner Dreyfuss to get here at this date. For five years since he left the Chicago Cubs as manager he has been living the life of a gentleman at Mt. Brydges, Ont., Canada. Gibson came here several months ago and negotiated with Dreyfuss but just when he seemed to have the job clinched a controversy arose and Dreyfuss was open for new candidates.

HITCH OVER SALARY

Apparently there was a hitch over the salary demanded by Gibson and Dreyfuss not later than Saturday night, for he might have a few managers this week provided a certain proposition were accepted. It is probable that a compromise was affected on the salary question and Dreyfuss wired Gibson to reach Pittsburgh today.

When Gibby got off the train he rushed immediately to the home of his son in Wilkinsburg. There he awaited the appointed hour.

Less than five minutes after Gibson signed the contract, Max Carey stepped into the office, not knowing what was going on. If Carey had appeared five minutes earlier there would have been much confusion as the newspapermen might have figured that Carey had left the Brooklyn Dodgers for the Pirates. Carey, however, just landed from New York on his way to West Baden and having 12 hours to himself, he naturally went to the Pittsburgh office.

CHANGES CONTEMPLATED

"I certainly am glad to get back to Pittsburgh, which, after all, is my baseball home. I have been living a life of ease in comfort, but I feel like a 2-year-old and this is a happy moment in my life.

"So far as the Pirates are concerned you can say for me there will be some changes in the lineup. I think we have a pretty fair ball club, but the situation demands a change or two. When we go to the meetings this week we expect to negotiate with the officials of several National League clubs who have made overtures to us for some of the players whom we believe would be better off if they were traded by the Pittsburgh club. I cannot say at this time just what clubs will negotiate with us, but Mr. Dreyfuss and I are confident we will be able to do something when we get to Chicago. While we are at West Baden we expect to carry on some negotiations that hold much promise."

AT HELM IN 1920

Gibson, always noted for being in top condition, was in wonderful shape after his five years of inactivity.

Gibby assumed the reins of leadership in Pittsburgh in the spring of 1920, succeeding Hugo Bezdek, now physical director at Pennsylvania State College. He had a mediocre club in 1920. It was sorely in need of a shortstop.

In the winter of 1920 he arranged a famous trade with the Boston Braves. He and Dreyfuss gave Outfielder Billy Southworth, Outfielder Fred Nicholson and Shortstop Walter Barbare and $20,000 for Walter Maranville. The Pirates immediately became pennant contenders in the 1921 race and were one of the best drawing cards in baseball.

PIRATE IN 1905

Gibson first became a Pirate in 1905 after being purchased in 1904 from the Montreal club of the old Eastern League. Associated with Manager Fred Clarke and also a teammate of Honus Wagner, Gibby was a great catcher until the end of the 1915 season or a period of 11 years.

In 1909 when the Pirates won the pennant and the world series he established an endurance record by catching more than 140 games during the National League season.

In 1915 Gibson and Clarke came to a parting. The aggressive Kansan gave up the management in favor of Jimmy Callahan. Gibson and Callahan did not get along very well and before the end of the 1916 season, Gibby severed his connections with the club.

He was made a free agent and immediately John McGraw dickered for his services. The result was Gibson was the coach of the Giants in 1917 and 1918.

In 1919 Gibson was found as manager of the Toronto Club, of the International League. Toronto finished second that season,

SHANNON HOLDS MORGAN TO TIE

By TOM BIRKS

Flashing a strong attack and a sound defense, the Castle Shannon Morrys upset the dope in the Keystone League by holding Morgan to a 2-2 score at Morgan yesterday with a large crowd watching the soccer game.

It was the first time this season Morgan has been held—Peckovitch and his mates were full value for the point involved.

Something appeared to be lacking in the Morgan attack. Buff Donnelli found himself going no place in particular. Harry Sickles made it his business to play the brother act with Buff, and the popular Duquesne man never had a shot all afternoon.

Shannon played a better game than Morgan. It opened the scoring early in the first half. Paton, who usually plays in the halfback line, started at outside right and, after 15 minutes, cut towards the goal to beat Burnaby with a good shot.

URBANIC TIES SCORE

Morgan made too many changes in positions, and this broke up the teamwork in the second half. It was this that enabled Sickles to concentrate on Buff Donnelli.

Morgan went into the lead after 20 minutes in the second period, Johnny McCosky scoring for the home club.

The second goal was best. Ray Barrett, visiting center forward, flashed half the length of the field to score a brilliant goal. The Morgan defense was playing far apart and never had a chance to stop the Shannon man.

For Shannon, Benick, Peckovitch and Urbanic were the pick of the team, while Barrett, Paton and Donnelli were the best for Morgan.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The boys will be punching the bag for a long time trying to arrive at the correct answer to just what happened to Notre Dame in its last two games, with Southern California, when it couldn't hold a two-touchdown lead entering the final quarter, and Army, which beat the Irish, 12-0 . . . The general conclusion appears to be that the Notre Damers took a mental as well as a physical beating from the Trojans, from which they could not recover in a week's time . . . And, because of the collapse of the Andersonmen when they appeared to be headed for their third straight national title, Pitt looms bigger and better than ever, as a result of its 26-0 win over Army a few weeks before, after losing, 25-12, to Notre Dame earlier in the season . . . There's this to be said about Pitt teams (and it often has been said before)—don't try to beat 'em in November . . . They develop slowly, but when they're hot you have to handle 'em with tongs.

That tough defensive line of the Army figured to make the going rugged for Notre Dame. . . . There's only one way to beat the Cadets and that is through the air, and Marchy Schwartz wasn't "on" in this department Saturday. . . . Pitt scored all four of its touchdowns against the West Pointers with the most brilliant forward passing display any Pitt team ever has given . . . And that job of ruining Nebraska on Thanksgiving Day wasn't any slouch of an achievement, either.

It is difficult to conceive of any big college team with the traditions of Princeton behind it being as poorly equipped to defend itself as this year's Tiger eleven, whose rout against Yale on Saturday was as tragic as it was complete . . . Just another item for the Coast to crow over was Stanford's crushing defeat of Dartmouth in the East . . . And that Northwestern defeat by Purdue in a post-season charity game was nothing less than a heart-breaker for the Wildcats . . . Penn State and Lehigh play to only 2,500 in a charity game in Philadelphia . . . Proving that anything but a "natural" in the name of sweet charity, such as we have in the Tech-Dukes battle at the Stadium next Saturday, is bound to be a bust . . . One of the scandals of the year is that Holy Cross-Boston College "charity" game played in Boston the other day which showed receipts of $75,000 and a deficit of $21,000, with each team getting a guarantee of $30,000 and a $15,000 rental fee being paid for a field that was engaged but not used . . . Our local teams will play entirely gratis and the Stadium is being donated, which is as it should be in a case of this sort—HARRY KECK.

TWO PANTHERS ON ALL-EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—To Albie Booth, Yale's favorite football player, goes the distinction of landing a backfield berth for the third straight year on the Associated Press' all-Eastern eleven, selected by a consensus of the section's sports writers.

The mercury footed little leader of the Bulldogs, placed at quarterback on the mythical team for the last two seasons, finds himself at halfback on the 1931 edition.

Only one other back, the brilliant Capt. Barry Wood, of Harvard, polled more votes than Booth. Within 42 points out of a possible 91, Wood gained the coveted quarterback post over his only serious rival, Bill Morton, of Dartmouth. The distinction of piling up the most votes went to John Orsi, Colgate's great end, with 49 points.

Only two teams succeeded in putting more than one man on this year's eleven. In addition to Wood, the powerful Harvard machine placed Henry Myerson, its star guard. Pittsburgh, beaten only by Notre Dame, placed Jim MacMurdo at tackle and Ralph Daugherty at center. Bucknell, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Yale, Army, Holy Cross and Colgate had one player apiece whom the critics thought worthy of highest honors.

Following are the selections, showing the number of votes cast for each individual:

FIRST TEAM

Orsi, Colgate (49)	End
MacMurdo, Pittsburgh (43)	Tackle
Pettell, Holy Cross (38)	Guard
Daugherty, Pittsburgh (28)	Center

Tony Herrera

You never can tell in advance. Tonight at Motor Square Garden Tony Herrera of Chicago one of the most popular lightweights ever to appear here and Johnny Jadich of Philadelphia are down for a demonstration of the case in point.

It is their second meeting. In the first, at the Meyers Bowl last summer, Jadich leveled off with a straight right cross to the jaw that dropped Tony for a count of nine in the first round. Tony pulled himself together and made certain to keep his teeth out of the traffic for the remainder of the evening, with the result that he lost the decision, the first reverse in his long string of local engagements.

Johnny Jadich

MAY BE BOXING TEST

Tonight, he will know better than to tempt fate. Whether or not he will be able to drop in his own knockout punch remains to be seen. It is known that he is more than anxious to even the score with the rangy buddy of Tommy Loughran, the former light-heavyweight champion, and he should be primed for the fight of his life.

It all depends. Each may decide not to take any chances, in which event we should see a dazzling boxing exhibition. But any fan will tell you he'd rather see a lot of hitting than an excess of fencing skill.

BROTHER ON CARD

Tony's kid brother, Carlos Herrera, makes his Pittsburgh debut against Machine Gun Pete Davy Grove, of the North Side, in the eight-round semi-final. U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, boxes Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, in the second number, and Tony Shea, of Chicago, tosses leather with Tony Marino, of Duquesne, in the opener, at 8:30. Shea is a brother of Eddie Shea, the noted featherweight, and Marino is a brother of Tommy Ryan, a once rugged bantamweight, who met 'em all.

Meanwhile, at New Castle, Jackie Rodgers and Mose Butch, local bantamweights, resume their feud in a 10-rounder in the Castle Bowl tonight.

Between Rounds

Jack Thompson's cut eye has healed and the North Side lightweight again is ready for action. His manager is White, Wilkinsburg, who may be reached by calling Everglade 5617 M.

Wilbur Chevalier and Jackie Sharkey have been matched for Minneapolis Friday night.

Willie Davies is trying to get a match with Al Brown, the bantamweight champion. Both dropped the fact that he won 11 bouts since becoming a bantamweight. The Motor Square Garden club is trying to stage Mose Butch out of this assignment after signing him for 12 to make up for kicking Sammy Dorfman and Ray Collins in on top of Bat Battaglia and Frankie Wallace recently. Mose is mighty entitled to the match with Brown, but whether or not he will get it is problematical to Davies is another matter.

The amateurs are set for their Western Pennsylvania championship tourney to start in Meyersport Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Gibson named manager of the Pirates today, talks over his new job with Max Carey, another former Pirate star, who has been signed to lead the Brooklyn club. They'll be rivals next season in quest of the National League pennant. Who knows but that they already are cooking up some sort of a swap? They met in the Pirates office today.

GEORGE GIBSON

THE COACH'S VIEWPOINT

By Howard Harpster

The rather popular and uncertain practice of predicting the winner of a football game before it is played, by means of comparative scores, once more was proved undependable when the West Point eleven rose to great heights to send Notre Dame down to its second successive defeat, 12-0, Saturday. . . . However, when one stops to consider that the Irish handed Pitt a 25-to-12 licking and that Pitt in turn walloped the Army by the one-sided score of 26 to 0, it is little wonder the Army was conceded only an outside chance of beating Notre Dame. . . . The decisive victory of the Army over the Irish emphasizes the fact that you can't tell from what a team has done or has failed to do whether it will be effective or ineffective against another team on any given day.

Howard Harpster

There is little doubt that the mental attitude of the players on a football team has more to do with the success or failure of that team than any other single factor. . . . It is possible that the individual players on an eleven may possess such extraordinary ability that it isn't necessary for them to become aroused mentally and "set" for certain games in order to win, but when those same players meet a team which is all "steamed up" and whose members are determined to win, then the best players are not always victorious.

Now, I don't wish to convey the idea that I believe Notre Dame is a better team than the Army, for the Cadets beat the Irish fairly and decisively last Saturday and proved beyond doubt that on that day, at least, the Army had a much better team. However, I believe that the reason the Army had the better team in this game was because the Army players wanted to win more than the Notre Dame players did. . . . They went into the game as the "underdog" and in the right frame of mind and outfought the Irish all of the way.

Notre Dame was caught by surprise, and, regardless of the fact that Coach Anderson probably warned the players all week about the Army being hard to beat, and even though they realized the Army eleven always has been the "toughest" team they play, the Notre Dame players didn't believe down in their hearts that the Cadets really would be a match for them, for they, too, were thinking of the comparative scores. . . . The result was a real upset.

Northwestern's defeat at the hands of Purdue also came as a huge surprise, for most of the pickers had selected Coach Dick Hanley's team as the likely winner. . . . The Wildcats had the ball on the one-yard line with a first down early in the game and then suffered offside penalties on two successive plays to take away their only big scoring chance. That was a tough break, for a touchdown was almost certain with four chances to make only a yard. . . . The final score was 7 to 0.

W. & J. won a spectacular game from West Virginia by the close score of 14 to 13. . . . The Mountaineers were held scoreless in the first half and entered the third quarter trailing 14 points. . . . Their passing game functioned properly in the last two quarters and W. & J. had to fight desperately to keep the lead. . . . West Virginia was stopped once just a foot short of the goal.

Yale, minus the services of its backfield star and captain, Albie Booth, toyed with Princeton and ran up its largest score against the Tigers, 51 to 12, to bring to an end one of the leanest seasons in Princeton history.

MINOR LEAGUE CHIEFS MEET

WEST BADEN, Ind., Nov. 30 (AP)—Minor League baseball, suffering acutely from that serious disease known as poor gate receipts and top heavy overhead, came to this American Spa for health treatments today.

Every important figure in the national pastime from Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis down to a financially harassed Class D league club owner came for the consultation and all of them agree that a serious crisis has arrived.

Drastic economy, through sharp reduction in expenses, players' salaries and more compact leagues was the suggested remedy on almost everyone's tongue, while a few of the smaller league club owners were reported to be on the verge of giving up their baseball ships and turning to other business to make a living.

There was little or no pre-meeting discussion of the draft problem. The new agreement comes up for ratification and there was little doubt but what it will be accepted.

Indications are that President Mike Sexton will hold his office as president. J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, definitely stopped the campaign for his election to the post by announcing he was not a candidate.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The wife of Mrs. John D. Chapman (Gwendolyn Cobb, and Mrs. Sara Fowler Wadsworth, Pittsburgh, added two strong contenders to the field of 50 mated for the qualifying round today of the eleventh Carolina golf tournament for women.

GALLATIN DEFEATED

Bridgeville defeated Gallatin 4-1 and Curry blanked Cecil, 2-0, in other Keystone League contests.

In the Panhandle circuit, Moon Run topped Sturgeon, 3-2; Grove bowed to Cuddy, 5-3; Heidelberg and Gladden tied, 1-1; Houston beat South View, 2-1; Primrose lost to Cedar Grove, 3-1; Castle Shannon bumped Beadling, 3-1; Curry Juniors and the Owls tied, 2-2. Mollenauer whitewashed the Veronas, 2-0, and Coverdale knocked off the Scotts, 2-0.

Hill Crest downed Dunlevy, 2-1, and Manown tripped Fitz Henry, 2-0, in the Monongahela League. The lineup for the Morgan contest:

son. Southern California always was conceded a chance against the South Benders but you'd have had trouble lining up any bets on the Cadets unless you offered large odds and gave a few points. And by a few points I don't mean six or seven. It looks as though the Irish are very much in the same predicament as the fighter who goes along winning a string of bouts by knockouts and then runs into one on the whiskers himself. The old psychological edge is removed and they all go in there to take a pot shot at him.

You'll hear now that the Army didn't try to beat Pitt, that the Cadets built their season for Notre Dame and Notre Dame alone, and that they took the engagement with the Panthers as a matter of course. If you do, keep it in mind and use it any time you want to provide an alibi for a favorite that falls down, or to discount the record of a school you may not like.

The Soldiers may not have been keyed up for the Pitt game as they were for Notre Dame, but you can bet your boots they didn't go in there resigned to taking a pasting around.

The Army line, which gave Pitt's fine forward wall an even tussle, outplayed Notre Dame's touted rush line from here to there and the Cadet secondary, with Carver and Kilday playing the star roles, trumped the Irish passing game and stopped the running attack with devastating effect. Carver must have spent half the afternoon jumping into the air to intercept passes or knock 'em down and Kilday, the baby who was coming up fast and hard to nail the ball luggers after the Army ends and tackles had taken care of the interference.

Steeger, who was so completely bottled up here, turned in the two big offensive gestures of the day and Marchy Schwartz, who was figured to dominate the game, was just another ball player with No. 16 on his jersey.

Wash-Jeff and West Virginia gave a disappointing crowd at Wheeling a thrill or two as they staged their thirtieth battle. The Presidents, thanks to a first-half attack, won, but West Virginia, with a brilliant aerial display in the second half and a courageous defensive game, stole the game's thunder.

TECH DUKES DRILL

Today Carnegie Tech and the Dukes open their final training drives for their big charity game in the Stadium Saturday. Seats for the contest go on sale today.

After what happened to Notre Dame and Northwestern Saturday, the Tartans better be careful how they go at this Duquesne team. Saturday's upsets hardly are likely to cause the odds on the Tartans to shift, but the Skibos can count on a busy afternoon against the ambitious Dukes. An ambitious individual or an ambitious football team always bears watching, careful watching.

PACKERS NEAR TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—The Green Bay (Wis.) Packers are within one victory of clinching their third straight National Professional League football title. They defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers here yesterday, 7-0. The Portsmouth, O., Spartans still have a mathematical chance to tie for the crown.

SUCCEEDED BEZDEK

Dreyfuss became dissatisfied with Hugo Bezdek, who had replaced Callahan in the middle of the 1917 season. Dreyfuss and Bezdek split at the end of the 1919 season and Gibby was named manager. Gibson left Dreyfuss in the middle of the 1922 season over some sort of a controversy, but they always have been good friends. Gibby rested for the remainder of the 1922 season, and then signed as coach of the Washington Senators under Manager Donie Bush in 1923.

One year in the American League was enough for Gibby, who is a confirmed National Leaguer. He threw up the Washington job at the end of the season and then rested in 1924. The season of 1925 found him back in the National League in a Cub uniform, he was coach under Manager Bill Killefer and Rabbit Maranville, finishing up the season as manager.

However, in 1926 Joe McCarthy was appointed manager of the Cubs and Gibby went back into retirement. He has not been in baseball since that time.

SCHOOL HEADS MEET TO NAME GRID CHAMP

By JULIUS LEVIN

The trials and tribulations of a King Solomon will be re-enacted at the Fort Pitt Hotel this afternoon when the football committee of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League will attempt to clarify a championship triangle that even the arbitrator of Biblical fame would have trouble solving to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

The purpose of the meeting is to determine which one of three schools, namely Clairton, Midland and Washington is entitled to the interscholastic football championship of Western Pennsylvania. Clairton High School is sitting in the driver's seat with eight league victories, while Midland and Washington show records that include seven triumphs over league opponents. Although Clairton has played one league game more than its opponents, its margin of percentage points is not sufficient to give it a clear claim to the championship.

IMPRESSIVE RECORDS

League rules require a championship contender to play at least six games with Class A schools enrolled in its membership. All three of the championship contenders have complied with league regulations in establishing their title claims and the league authorities are going to have a difficult problem on their hands in determining ways and means of settling the issue.

If the point system, a system that gives a school 100 points for every victory over a Class A opponent, 50 points for a tie game and 10 points for every victory and five points for every team tied by its opponents, is applied by the committee, Clairton has a slight lead over Midland, which, in turn, holds an advantage over Washington.

FAVOR CONTEST

Rumors in scholastic circles have the committee favoring a post-season game between Clairton and Midland, the winner to be declared the champion of Western Pennsylvania, a move that would cause an uproar in Washington, where the supporters of the Little Presidents are convinced that their favorites are every bit as strong as Clairton or Midland.

All three schools have compiled enviable grid records this season and are deserving of the highest consideration from the football committee. No matter what decision the governing body may reach, it is certain to cause a lot of dissatisfaction in Western Pennsylvania scholastic circles. It is a thankless assignment at its best and will continue as such until a better method of computing points is devised by the powers-that-be.

The members of the football committee are J. G. Hulton, superintendent of Latrobe schools, chairman; Ralph Gardner, faculty manager at New Castle High, and J. G. Dunn, McDonald High.

CLASS B TEAMS BUNCHED

Besides settling the Class A championship situation, the football committee will act on the Class B championship, involving Freeport, Springdale, Hurst and Edgewood.

Regardless how Clairton comes out of the championship fight, George Woodman's team has a chance to play in Miami, Fla., on Christmas Day. An invitation to participate in the game was extended the Clairton school authorities shortly before the game with Elizabeth. Clairton authorities submitted their terms, which must be accepted by the Miami officials before the contract can be closed. If Clairton makes the trip it will mark the first time a W. P. I. A. L. team has appeared in the South. Bellefonte Academy once invaded Texas to defeat the prep school champs of that state.

BENEFIT GAME SALE OPENS

The final week's drive of the Carnegie Tech-Duquesne University football game for the benefit of the needy of Allegheny County at the Stadium next Saturday afternoon gets under way today.

It sees the inauguration of the ticket sales and the battery of radio announcements that will fill the week's programs at all of the local stations. Twenty-three periods have been alloted on the air beginning tonight.

Capt. Murray Armentrout of Tech will speak from Station WWSW from 6:45 to 7 o'clock. Mike Ferrara, captain of the Dukes, will be on KQV from 7:45 to 8. Bob Waddell, Tech coach, will speak from WCAE from 10:45 to 11 and Elmer Layden, coach of the Dukes, will be interviewed from KDKA by Bill Farren, the sports reporter at 11:15. The program marks the first time two local football coaches and captains have been on the ether in a single night.

TICKETS GO ON SALE

Tickets went on sale this morning at the various agencies and at the offices of the three universities. Tech, Duquesne and Pitt. Setting the pace for the people of Greater Pittsburgh as they will set the pace for each other next Saturday were the players of the two squads, who purchased their own tickets of admission. The agencies with the tickets for sale are:

Duquesne University Athletic Office, Administration Building; Carnegie Tech Athletic Office; University of Pittsburgh Athletic Office, Heimert's four stores, 3614 Forbes street, 117 South Highland avenue, 4627 Liberty avenue and 5860 Solway street; Honus Wagner's, 813 Liberty avenue; Spalding's, 608 Wood street; Gimbel's, Smithfield street; Horne's, Penn avenue; Stauffer's, 3806 Forbes street; Kaufmann's, Smithfield street; Wagner-Traynor sporting goods store, Clark Building, and Alvin's pharmacy, Walnut street.

The advance sale indicates many thousands will attend the game. All three of the universities have received reservations for several thousand seats and a number of organizations already have reserved blocks, including the Philadelphia Company, the Pittsburgh Press Club, which ordered seats for disabled veterans; Pittsburgh Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, which also ordered a block of seats for veterans and the Postal Clerks' Association and the Letter Carriers' Band, which ordered a large block for members.

THEATER INVITES PLAYERS

Having heard that the boys of the two squads had volunteered their services and were paving their way into the game, Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon Theater, invited the two squads to be the guests of the management of the theater and John Golden Tuesday of next week at a presentation of Golden's "As Husbands Go." Rachel Crothers' smart comedy. The invitations were directed to Clarence Overend, director of athletics at Tech, and John Heldman, athletic director at Duquesne University.

The theater's invitation followed that issued the two teams by the management of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets hockey club. The members of the Duquesne squad were guests of the management Saturday night at the Crag street rink, and the members of the Plaid squad will view one of the games this week.

The Yellow Jackets will be in second place in the International Hockey League standings when they swing into action against the Tecumsehs in London tomorrow night and if they continue to play the brand of hockey that they flashed in battling the Londoners to an 0-0 tie here Saturday they still will be in second place when the fray is ended.

Detroit, Syracuse and Cleveland today share the runner-up berth with the local skaters and Detroit, Cleveland and Syracuse all are to participate in further league action tomorrow.

MUST TOP LONDON

This means that the Jackets will have to defeat London to retain their second-place rating, but the above statement still stands, for the Redmen outplayed the Tecumsehs so decisively Saturday that Stuart had to perform goal-tending miracles to prevent a London defeat, and Stuart's supply of miracles should be just about exhausted.

Saturday's battle was something of a triumph for Ty Armour, Frank Ingram, Eddie Rodden and Art Berlett. For the first time this season the Rodden-Ingram-Arbour line took the play away from the fighting Holmes-Gregg-Halliday combination, and for the first time this season Berlett dealt out paralyzing body checks in the most approved fashion and remained on the ice throughout most of the milling.

With Berlett back in A-1 condition and Gordy Fraser displaying his customary fight and skill, Goalie Cox's burden should be lightened, and if the Rodden-Ingram-Arbour combination can continue to "click" as it did Saturday it will have to be ranked with the best forward trios in the circuit.

FIELDS MAY BE SHIFTED

Whitey Fields, who heretofore has performed at center on the third front line, was used only at defense Saturday, but Coach Charley Reid may have to shift Whitey back to his pivot position in order to remain within the league limit of 13 active men. If this change is made, Joe Matte will have to do virtually all of the defense relief work, and Norman Locking, who did a fair job of piloting against the Tecumsehs, will be moved back to left wing.

The Jackets will play their next home game Thursday against the Windsor Bulldogs, league champions, and if they can duplicate their Saturday performance they should make the titleholders look like very ordinary foemen.

RANGERS WALLOP HAWKS

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—(AP)—The New York Rangers, leaders of the American division of the National Hockey League, last night handed the Chicago Blackhawks a 5-to-0 lacing, the worst beating the Hawks have taken on Chicago ice.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—Northwestern will not accept a bid to play Southern California in the Tournament of Roses football game New Year's Day.

Announcement to this effect was made today by K. L. (Tug) Wilson, director of athletics, who said negotiations were dropped with the defeat of Northwestern by Purdue in their charity post-season game last Saturday.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—[illegible] continued to prevail in the bond market today. Trading was light and prices irregular, although the rails and foreign issues were subjected to some pressure. In the United States list Liberty bonds were bought at advanced figures while the treasuries were irregularly off or unchanged.

Favors Further Curtailment of Sugar Output

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Just 165 days after he started discussions which resulted in the international agreement to limit exportations of sugar during 1931, Thomas L. Chadbourne, New York lawyer today announced he would seek a further curtailment in 1932.

He expressed confidence the further limitation of production would be agreed to by the sugar producing countries which will send representatives to the International Sugar Council at Paris December 14. Mr. Chadbourne, as last year, will attend the council as one of the representatives of the Cuban Industry.

Wall Street to Watch Industrials Closely In Next Few Days

The market's action in the next few days will be watched with [illegible] interest in Wall Street [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] quarters where more than the [illegible] attention is accorded the [illegible] that there is [illegible] industrials can hold above the October [illegible] lows [illegible] the bear [illegible] ing by the [illegible] of discussion should have an invigorating effect on market sentiment. Going back to the 1921 bear market it is shown that it [illegible] the final phase of [illegible] deflation in the share list [illegible] August of that year, the railroad shares refused to follow the industrials when that group finally set its maximum for the bear movement, thus drawing a decline. If industrials can in this instance duplicate the action of the rails at that time, the psychological effect is reasoned could be far-reaching.

For 17 solid weeks the record of brokers' loans has shown an uninterrupted downward trend which has been every bit as drastic as it has been lengthy. The cut of $24,000,000 in the past week brings the cumulative shrinkage to $615,000,000 for the period or a drop of 45 per cent from the total of $1,566,000,000 outstanding on September 7 last. In that interval member banks in New York City have cut advances to brokers for their own account by $292,000,000, and in addition have reduced security loans direct to non-broker customers by $36,000,000.

Changes in the underlying credit situation during last week, as revealed in the reserve statements made for an increased measure of liquidity in the system's position. Holdings of discounted bills increased by $24,000,000, but this was more than offset by a reduction of $54,000,000 in holdings of open market bills. The volume of reserve credits outstanding was reduced by $31,000,000, net, while monetary gold stocks rose $39,000,000. Money in circulation showed an increase of $8,000,000, net, compared with an increase of $12,300,000 in the total of reserve notes in circulation, indicating a contraction in other forms of currency entering into the total. The expansion in money in circulation is seasonal at this time, note circulation having risen $38,266,000 in the same week last year.

Consistently good buying has been coming into Bendix Aviation in the past during reactions. While the stock has suffered at times with the liquidation in the general market, it has shown better resistance than most other issues, and frequently the issue has moved against the trend. The demand is credited with coming from sources well informed on the company's affairs, and is said to be based on the prospects of important business closed in the not distant future.

Interests who were prominent during the last advance in U. S. Industrial Alcohol are confident that announcement of an advance in the price of the company's principal product is not far off and may be made within a few days if present plans are carried out. They insist that this action will be beneficial to the company when it comes to closing contracts for 1932 delivery and a higher alcohol price will mean larger earnings for U. S. Industrial Alcohol next year.

HIGH SPEED GIRL

A Story of Modern Homes And Unbridled Youth

By MAY CHRISTIE

Laurel's Efforts to Gain Dr. Harvey's Interest Are Unsuccessful

CHAPTER IX

Young Dr. Bruce Harvey, walking down the drive that led from the entrance to Oakes Manor, came over on the grass to greet Laurel.

Demure she was today in her gown of simple white. And—yes!—guiltless of paint and heavy makeup, she looked perfectly charming and natural.

I was partly curiosity that had brought him to the house today. He HAD agreed at last that an dinner-party to stop here on his professional rounds and take tea with the girls and Mrs. Oakes. The husband—Michael Oakes was rich and influential. As a practitioner beginning work in the neighborhood it was helpful to be friendly with these people.

But an interest in young Laurel, too, had impelled him here. Although he hadn't said a thing about it, last night's adventure in MAS rather odd that Mrs. Oakes hadn't made any reference to her young daughter.

Had she waited up for the prodigal's return last night? Or rather early this morning?

Did she know anything about Laurel's doings?

This afternoon he'd given the lovely Mrs. Constance Oakes a lead or two so that it would have been perfectly easy and natural to mention her daughter.

But the charming lady in the sea-green wrap had only seemed to want to talk about HIMSELF and HER.

How very charming she had been, thought he wondering a little as to the reason for it.

On his departure she had given him an invitation for dinner at the Country Club for next Saturday evening.

Little Laurel would be there, of course.

Or would it be a function for the older people?

LAUREL GREETS DOCTOR

But none of the women looked upon themselves as anything but YOUNG. Why, they were as kittenish—even more so than the youngsters.

"Good afternoon, my Good Samaritan." Laurel stepped forward. He returned her greeting.

"How's the head today?" Because he was pleased to see her and because he felt he shouldn't feel such pleasure his tone was professionally brusque.

"Okay, thanks."

"No bad after effects?"

"No. I had my usual breakfast—two aspirins and a bromoseltzer."

"So? You think that suitable for a young woman?"

"Uh-ha. Plus of course black coffee."

"That's why your hands so cold—and shaking."

"A heart attack brought on by the shock of seeing you again!"

She had forgotten her role of ingenue. She was grinning at him impishly.

"I hope you didn't tell my mother anything about—you know what!"

"I left that to yourself. 'Twas none of my business."

O-oh! She drew a breath. So that's all I count for in your important life?

He looked intently at her for a moment, just as though I were a queer bug under a microscope, she told herself.

Well, what's the verdict?

He laughed. He had beautiful even teeth she saw. Like this in the daylight he looked doubly attractive.

Maybe I'm not so dumb. Maybe I'd shine on closer intimacy.

RIDES WITH HIM

That was a pretty swift one, thought she. Would he take up the challenge?

He said simply: "Much as I'd enjoy a little chat with you I must be on my way. I have to be at the Manor Hospital at half-past 5. I'll have to hurry."

O-oh! can't you put it off? Don't know. Dr. Harvey. I've a kind of yen for a talk with you.

Whoops! How thrilling.

Depends how you look on it, replied the young man briefly. The baby's parents will be waiting at the hospital. I don't suppose they're going to get much of a kick out of it.

She felt abashed.

I s'pose you think I'm heartless, don't you? Just a callous little pleasure-seeker.

I don't think anything at all except that I must go quickly.

She took a swift decision. I've an errand near the Manor Hospital. I'll go with you.

Well, what's on your mind? You're still criticising me, condemning me. Out with it.

He did not answer her at once. She repeated her statement.

He said then deliberately and almost tonelessly:

My mind was on that poor little kid on whom we're going to operate.

Laurel flushed scarlet. She had never felt more put in her place in all her life.

I s'pose you think I'm utterly heartless, she said again challengingly.

No. I wouldn't say heartless. I'd say "thoughtless" rather.

And egotistic, too?

For the first time since they had started on their way he looked directly at her.

He said quietly: Yes—oh yes—I would say egotistic.

She oughtn't to do this, she knew. It was making herself cheap to sit here waiting for a man who had no interest in her, who didn't in the least want to be bothered with her.

He had snubbed her, too, when she had suggested—daringly, and imagining that he would think her a brave girl—that she accompany him into the operating theater.

The only women present will be the trained nurses, he had told her bluntly.

When she had pressed her point he had informed her that she might turn her curiosity and her love of thrills to better account by interesting herself in his proposed home for crippled children.

She had stopped herself making a disagreeable face just in the nick of time. Physically fit herself, she had a dislike to any kind of deformity or sickness. And she considered, though she did not tell him so—that even well children were usually either boring or annoying.

What on earth am I doing here? she asked herself as the minutes lengthened into an hour and still there was no sign of the good-looking Bruce Harvey.

But Laurel did not move, afraid that he might come and she would miss him.

Heavens she wanted—desperately—to talk to him, be with him.

Could this be Love? The Romance that she had scorned? How Imogen would scream with laughter did she but know of it.

This young man had no MONEY. He had not way to make in life. He was "ineligible," serious-minded apparently had no interest except in that medico-microscopical way of his, in the seekers of Whoopie and High-speed.

But he was awfully attractive, none the less, thought she. And in sitting here like an infatuated fool he had got her to do what no other man could.

He would despise her for it, too. She knew it.

Hadn't her own mother cooed and chirped at him this afternoon for all the world like a hypnotized parrot?

And his interest wasn't in women at all—or flappers either, however knowing or pretty they thought they were. That was the very devil of it.

His WORK was everything to him. He considered her kind cheap, silly and shallow.

She bit her lower lip as she waited there, her brows drawn together.

HOW COULD SHE INTEREST HIM?

How could she make him "fall for her?"

She wanted that. Wanted to see those handsome quizzical eyes of his light up with eagerness at sight of her.

WHAT THEN . . . ?

And if other girls achieved those things why shouldn't SHE?

The trouble was that most men with money were so horribly unattractive!

Take Timmy Tewson, one of Imogen's "best bets," as Imogen aptly described him . . . for it was through betting that Timmy had garnered his large fortune. Dean of the racetrack letters was he . . . a very prince of "bookies."

Well, Timmy was 45 if a day, bald-headed and red-faced and large-tummied.

He had a gorgeous roof-apartment, where he loved to entertain the ladies.

Orgies went on there—Imogen had told her!—which were excessively up-to-date.

Maybe they'd drop in on Timmy tomorrow night, if Laurel could sneak off from the bosom of her family and get up to New York? Imogen had suggested.

But he had a swimming-pool up on his roof, and champagne and all kinds of drinks. A bevy of "swift" ladies surrounded him.

He was not alone as he came out of a side door in the building. He had a man and a woman with him.

They were a shabby-looking pair. The woman evidently had been weeping.

"Now everything's all right," she heard the doctor say, in a wonderfully kind and reassuring tone that was brimful of sympathy, and yet bracing. "I stayed right by him till he came out of the ether, and now he's sleeping comfortably."

Ah! the 4-year-old they had operated on? Laurel had almost forgotten about that.

She saw the woman, whose lips were trembling so that she couldn't speak, shake the doctor by the hand.

And the shabby man was muttering something that sounded like "very grateful to you, sir."

Then the pair went back into the hospital and the doctor came to his car.

"You still here?" He looked in astonishment at Laurel.

"I went away and then returned," she fibbed. "I thought maybe you'd be going back the same way . . . I mean in the direction of my home?"

She felt ill at ease under his clear glance. He got into the machine.

"Your thoughts weren't so wide of the mark, either," said he, taking the wheel, "because, among other messages waiting for me here, was one to look in at a case a couple of miles beyond your home."

"That's fine . . . I mean lucky for me," she corrected herself. Then daringly: "I'm awfully thirsty. I missed my tea, you know. Would we have time for a cup en route?"

"I'll pull up at the drug-store," he said without displaying any enthusiasm.

No. There's a cosy little teashop called the Kopper Kettle down on the left. And the woman who runs it makes the most delicious little sandwiches."

"I haven't much time—"

"Oh, please! I'm FAMISHED."

"Well, we'll have to make it snappy." Despite himself he couldn't hold out against her pleading.

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes, 19, thoroughly "modern," finds that she will be alone at dinner. She flirts with Roger Sartoris, 29, blase, jaded young man who is infatuated with her. Imogene Gay invites Laurel to a "moonlight party." Laurel drives her roadster out to a deserted farm house where she finds many of her friends intoxicated, having a gay time. The party becomes rowdy and Imogene hits Laurel with a glass. Laurel runs from the house. Finding her tires slashed she runs down the road and is rescued by young Dr. Bruce Harvey, who knows her mother. He takes Laurel home. The next day Laurel tells her mother that pleasure means more to her than love or romance. Laurel visits Imogen, who apologizes for hitting her with the glass. Imogen questions Laurel about Dr. Harvey. Laurel decides to make a favorable impression on Harvey when she returns home and discovers him having tea with her mother. She changes clothing and waits for him outside.

Now Go On

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Over 400 new members were admitted to the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club at the meetings at the Warner theaters Saturday.

There was much excitement over the election of new officers at each of the 13 theaters in the Pittsburgh district. There were many candidates but the returns this far show the following members elected.

Enright: Grand jester, Louise Mortimer; board of governors, Alexia Cunningham, Tillie Helfgott, Nick Drapola, David Goetz.

UNCLE KAY DEE AT HARRIS

Members of the Harris (Downtown) chapter had a great time with Uncle Kay Dee and his group of radio entertainers. The little company put on a scene from that delightful fairy story, "Hansel and Gretel." The role of witch was played by Anna Batement. Jimmy Wear was the wicked son. Ed Lewis impersonated the boy Hansel, and Adelaide Lasher was the pretty Gretel.

Little Rosemarie was quite the hit of the day. She played classical and popular numbers on her accordian, sang several solos to her own accompaniment and led the audience in community singing.

Another stage attraction at the Harris was The Pep Trio harmony singers. Packages of chewing gum were distributed to the children as they left the theater.

CAMERAPHONE CHAPTER

Members of this chapter elected as their grand jester Adele Yorio, a little girl who has been appearing for them in song and dance numbers at almost every meeting. They showed their appreciation today by making her their grand jester and Adele was at her best today. The children's orchestra—all members of the club—contributed several excellent numbers.

Derwin, the ventriloquist, was an extra added attraction and kept the audience laughing for 20 minutes.

OTHER CHAPTERS

Names of all the new officers will be published within the next few days. The boys and girls elected today will serve for four weeks. They will take their places on the stage at every meeting, read the club pledge, help the manager with the gifts and prizes that are given from the stage, and do everything they can to help the club.

Arsenal—Eleanor Stiglich, Jane Higgins, Rose Hilinski, Stanley Btosky, Julius Nemeth, Anthony O'Klola.

Harris (downtown)—Louise Battacchi, Frances Adams, Jack Brown.

Etna—Jack Brown.

Prince (Ambridge)—John Johnavits.

An Improvement

Opportunity for Favoritism in Purchase of City Supplies Is Lessened by New System

The investigation of the City Department of Supplies in the early part of the year disclosed not only that favoritism had been practiced in the awarding of contracts, but that a system was in vogue which by its very nature encouraged favoritism.

John D. Houston, the wholesale grocer, whose letter to Council complaining of favoritism started the inquiry, called attention to the fact that when bids were sought the department, instead of describing in detail the qualities desired in the goods, would merely say it desired to buy, say, canned peaches of the same quality as were put up by John Doe & Co., or soap equal to that manufactured by Richard Roe.

It is gratifying to learn that Col. W. E. Dunlap, the present director of the department, has abandoned that sloppy way of doing business and has adopted instead a system under which standard specification charts are used to indicate exactly what kinds of goods are desired without mention of brand or manufacturers' names.

The new method not only will be fairer to bidders, but fairer to the people who pay the bills.

Danger in the Woods

Hundreds of Thousands of Hunters Armed With Rifles Will Roam Pennsylvania Forests Tomorrow

The season for big game hunting opens in Pennsylvania tomorrow, and it is estimated that 250,000 hunters will take the field. So many are going from Pittsburgh that the Pennsylvania Railroad has put on a special train to accommodate them.

The State Game Commission reports that nearly 600,000 hunting licenses have been issued—a greater number than ever before—and that many persons are hunting for no other reason than to obtain food.

Thanks to a careful policy of game protection followed for a long period, deer are more plentiful in Pennsylvania than in any other state. They are too plentiful, in fact, and an effort is to be made this year to thin out the herds by permitting the killing of does.

The presence of an exceptionally large number of men in the woods and the fact that does are to be shot make the hazards worse than usual.

The deer hunter uses a rifle, a more deadly weapon than the shotgun that has been used during the small game season. The danger of accident is consequently greater than it was during November.

It is to be hoped that every hunter will be careful.

At Last!

Suit to Recover for Water Lost on Herrs Island Should Be Prosecuted Vigorously

The discovery was made through a secret pitometer test last April that about 1,000,000 gallons of water were mysteriously disappearing every day except Sunday from water mains on Herrs Island that had been placed there for fire protection purposes only.

The mains, it was charged, had been tapped by commercial concerns on the island, which had been using about $60,000 worth of water a year for many years without paying for it.

City and state officials and representatives of the Herrs Island companies conferred over the matter seven months ago, and then a long period of silence ensued.

It was later announced that suit was to be filed for the recovery of the value of the lost water, but the Law Department did not act, even though Council demanded to know what was going to be done about it.

The incessant pressure of public opinion has finally borne fruit, however, for the city filed suit on Saturday against the W. & H. Walker Company for $417,670 for alleged fraudulent conversion of water over a period of six years.

There has been an abundance of time for the preparation of the suit. Now let it be prosecuted vigorously.

A Lesson in Courage

If You Are Tempted to Despair, Consider the Condition Of the Country in 1857

James Hammond, president of Gimbels Pittsburgh store, has been showing some of his friends an article printed in Harper's Weekly of October 10, 1857, which many persons might consider a fairly good picture of present conditions. Here is a paragraph from it:

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years, not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper, has there been so much grave and deep apprehension. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment."

There is a lesson in courage in this. Things were bad in 1857, and worse was to follow, in the Civil War. Yet within a decade of the publication of the gloomy Harper's Weekly article the foundations of some of our great fortunes were laid in the development of the West and the inauguration of the era of transcontinental railroad building.

The country emerged triumphant and prosperous from the hard times of 1857, just as it will emerge from the present industrial depression.

Auto and Mine Deaths

Motor Car Fatalities Continue at a Rate Equal to a Continuous Succession of Coal Disasters

The coal mines of Western Pennsylvania have been free from accidents to an unprecedented extent of late. There has not been a major disaster in several years. All safety records have been broken.

The explanation lies in the fact that because of the industrial depression many mines are not being worked.

But automobile accidents continue at the same shockingly high rate that prevailed before the hard times started.

The National Association of Automotive Mutual Casualty Companies reports that automobiles killed more than three times as many people in the first 10 months of 1931 as have perished in all mine disasters since 1900, and that auto fatalities in Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois and California so far this year equal the total number of deaths in all mine accidents of these last 30 years.

Every two days, the statisticians have figured, automobiles kill as many people in the United States as lose their lives in the average mine disaster.

We have never become callous to mine disasters. Let us not become callous to auto accidents.

Both Members Of This Club -:- By Nelson Harding

Is the announcement of the scrap,
And faintly o'er the sound of blows
We hear the chairman's gavel rap.

While members cry "No, no! Tut, tut!"
And piously the fight deplore,
The fighters wreck the furniture
And knock the flowers on the floor.

The Tax Strategy of The Administration

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

When Senator Watson, who is not always so liberal, announced recently that the Republicans in the Senate would accept any reasonable tax plan the Democrats may propose, the strategy of his party was revealed. It is usually a dangerous thing for any party to increase taxes at the beginning of a presidential campaign. That is the reason that the administration and its spokesmen in Congress passionately opposed a tax revision at this juncture as long as possible. It was the hope that the fatal day of paying the piper could be postponed until after the election.

Meanwhile the deficit in the Treasury increased day by day until now we face the certainty of a $2,000,000,000 deficit and possibly larger. This is a condition that cannot be ignored. The administration is forced to the admission that under its "business administration" and because of its legislation and policies it is not paying expenses. There is an administration deficit of two billions and the taxpayers now must pay the piper.

Placing the Responsibility

That necessity is giving serious concern to the administration and its Congressional leaders. They are afraid of the effect on the people who must go deeper into their pockets; and because the Democrats have captured the House by a very narrow margin the strategy is to place the responsibility for the tax increase upon the Democrats.

The deficit is an administration deficit.

It has piled up to two billion dollars with every branch of the government in possession of the administration party.

The enormous loss in foreign trade and the resulting loss in customs revenue is due in a measure to the tariff that the administration forced through over the protests of the Democrats and a number of Republicans.

The enormous loss in revenue from income and corporation taxes is due in large measure to the bursting of the stock market bubble, which, over the protest of Senator Glass, was inflated by the administration until it burst.

The responsibility for the deficit is on the administration; and where the responsibility for the deficit is, there lies the responsibility for the tax increase.

The Administration Demands the Increase

Since the responsibility is on the administration, and it is the President, who, in his message, is to report on the "state of the Union," it is proper that the Democrats, as such, withhold their plan to meet the situation for which they are not responsible until Mr. Hoover has set the situation out and made his own recommendations as to how to meet the deficit.

That, too, is the duty and responsibility of the administration.

When it has proposed the means it would adopt to raise the money from the pockets of the people to meet the two billion dollar deficit with the government in all its branches in control of the administration, the Democrats may accept the plan proposed or offer a substitute.

But it is not the Democrats, even now in possession of the House only, and by a narrow margin, who are demanding an increasing of the taxation burdens of the people—it is the administration.

And the administration is demanding it because its short-sighted policies are responsible for the deficit that must be met.

Senator Watson is much too clever, and the Democrats will be wary about the "Greeks bearing gifts."

Give the Administration A Chance

It would certainly be a blunder for the Democrats to enter into an agreement with the administration party on taxation before the submissions of the administration's program to meet the administration's deficit. When Congress convenes the people who will have to pay the piper will expect a full debate on the reasons for the deficit.

Why is it that an administration that was going to "eliminate poverty" because the previous administration had placed "business on the basis of permanent prosperity" lays a $2,000,000,000 deficit in the lap of a Democratic House within three years of its inauguration?

To what extent is the administration responsible for this deficit?

What administration policies or failures to act have contributed to this condition?

Little Time to Spare For Home Problems

It would be ungracious, too, for the Democrats to deprive the administration of the opportunity to show what it can do, or has to offer, for the solution of our domestic problems. From the hour Congress adjourned last March the administration has been concentrating on an effort to relieve distress in Europe.

The Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury have been busy over there. There has been but little time to spare for home problems, although the American people are as prostrate as the French are prosperous. With the agreements entered into in the secret conferences with European statesmen the American people are but vaguely acquainted, but there is every reason to suspect from the tone of the European press and the character of the propaganda here that a proposal is in the offing to dump the debts of 14 nations onto the shoulders of the same taxpayers who are about to be called upon to meet the American governmental deficit of two billion dollars.

The strategy of the administration is now clear: to place the responsibility for the unprecedented depression in America upon Europe and to pass the responsibility for increasing the taxes here upon the party which does not have the presidency or the Senate and has the House by a margin of two or three votes.

Meanwhile, Dr. Julius Klein, inspired spokesman of the administration, unabashed by the unvarying failures of his pollyanna prophecies, smilingly resumes his place before the microphone with another gem of thought:

And he might have added that wages are a matter of desperation, but he is more concerned with profits than with wages.

With chirpily cheeriness, he tells of factories running "full force" and to capacity, and of an industry that has "increased its profits" by 170 per cent over last year; and, at the time he spoke, he knew that the government's own report shows an increase of 2.7 per cent in unemployment this month over last. These exercises in optimism by the doctor butter no bread and furnish no bread to butter, but they do no harm, and coax an unaccustomed smile these days, provided they do not interfere with the collection of funds to feed the hungry.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Diary of a modern Pepys. Betimes up and found a letter from the crooning R. Vallee and his sister, too. And word that Ed Nolan, cut for an appendix in Los Angeles, is fit again. With my wife to Pierre's to call on the Edward Woodyards and the Waldorf to see the A. A. Milnes from London.

Working awhile, but more absorbed in a magic trick to make a coin vanish when tossed in the air and do it well, too. Then to Leon and Natalie Gordon's tea for J. P. McEvoy against his going to Russia. And Hendrik Van Loon, Rube Goldberg, James M. Flagg, Russell Patterson, Edison Marshall and others came.

In the evening dropped in a moment at R. M. Brinkerhoff's dinner to Roy Chapman Andrews and they were expecting Lowell Thomas and Alexander Woollcott. Off later to Ed Wynn's hilarious harlequinade and picking up Morris Gest drove him home while he regaled with stories of pranks as a ticket speculator.

The nearest to the so-called Round Table of the intelligentsia is the Wednesday Evening Culture Club, so named because it meets Friday noon. It is the open forum of publishers, magazine editors, literary agents, columnists and novelists. Nothing is discussed seriously, instead the air is filled with hasty bombast and the tilt of inuendo. And now and then even persiflage sets in.

The achievement of Norman Anthony, Jr., in recent months is calculated to douse a few flaming egos in the art of prolific writing. Mr. Anthony, save for the picture jokes, has written the entire contents of his magazine, Ballyhoo, and with this rapid fire output his periodical has gone far past the million mark. And soars on.

Gil Patten, under his Frank Merriwell pseudonym of Burt L. Standish, used to turn out 50,000 words a week and still have time for evenings of bottle pool. In his lean days Arthur Somers Roche often would leave his crowd at Doc Perry's visit a newspaper office, write a poem in the anteroom, and return to the gang with a $5 check. Courtney Ryley Cooper, a two-fingered typist, to appease an unfeeling Gramercy Park landlord 15 years ago, wrote a three-part serial from 8 in the morning until 5 in the evening, ran to a magazine shop and came puffing back with the check as the undersheriff was fixing to seal up his door. Albert Payson Terhune was up in the forefront of fast workers until he reached the opulence of a Pompton Lakes estate. His dexterity was extraordinarily amazing, due to the fact that on account of an atrophied arm from writer's cramp there were years when he typed with only one hand.

The elfin Alexander Woollcott proved that at least one dramatic critic is a forth-right Thespian. A distinguished audience hailed him at the Belasco several weeks ago. The curtain arose revealing Mr. Woollcott stretched out in a lounge in a pot-bellied state of semi-somnolence over a backgammon game. He is cast as a Park Avenue flaneur, lazily purring epigrams to the accompaniment of the crepitant crunch of an annoying stiff shirt. Mr. Woollcott is immense.

Mr. Woollcott's sophistries are spouted over the second rate intrigues of a shady night club chanteuse who married his socially empurpled nephew. After many rumors of digressions he archly "sopranos": "But has she committed what the late Woodrow called the overt act?" And reaching middle-aged stagnation that so often comes to hard living bachelors, he whines: "I'm fed up with ladies of vitality. From now on I am going in for languor." All of which is doubly amusing to those knowing Mr. Woollcott.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Sweet and Low-Down

Each time a man falls in love with so much more ease and facility that he scarcely recognizes it as the same old emotion.

Life must be pretty blank and arid for a modern girl when she can regard a casual kiss or a little rough house love making as a thrilling "temptation."

Soft, sweet, pink-and-white bon bons have gone out of fashion, according to the candy makers. But men still seem to prefer soft, sweet, pink-and-white ladies to the hard glace variety.

A woman can be reasonably happy with a man when she has reached the point where she can regard him as an abstract quantity, like the weather, and not expect him to be dependable for two days in succession.

* * *

A woman always asks herself, "Have I the heart for this love affair?" A man asks himself only, "Have I the time?"

* * *

Indian summer is that dangerous moment (somewhere around 50) when the heart of a man is so mellow that it falls at the first breath of flattery from an attractive woman.

Among a man's loves, the last is always the best—until it suddenly becomes "the-one-before-the-last."

* * *

The most dangerous moment in a man's life is that in which he offers a lot of "good, sound common sense advice" to a woman who is suffering from wounded vanity and longing for a little flattery and petting.

* * *

Love is not actually dead until you cease to wonder where a man is or what he is doing, evenings.

Of course, there are lots of things that money won't buy—but, nowadays, a husband isn't one of them.

Isn't It So?

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

Remember the tramps who used to come to your mother's back door when you were a youngster in the nineties?

Always half scared of them, weren't you? Yet, looking back now you wonder why. After all, they weren't any dirtier or shabbier than the dozens of old loafers who hung around the livery stable. But somehow, a tramp was different.

For one thing, a tramp didn't care enough for any place to hang around it—he was always on the move. Even when he got a job for a few days cutting wood or spading gardens, he wouldn't keep it. He had to move along—try something new. Nothing seemed to hold a tramp. He didn't want a house, like other people. Or a job—or a business—or a family—or neighbors. He didn't have anything and he didn't want anything. He didn't care for anything except to keep moving.

He didn't care—that's what set a tramp apart from other people. He wasn't necessarily a thief or a murderer. He just was a person who didn't care. That was what made him different . . . and dangerous.

For, of course, you couldn't count on a person who didn't care. The things that meant a lot to you didn't mean anything to him. He wouldn't work for them, or fight for them. He just kept moving along, and you never could tell what we would do next.

Tramps weren't very common in the nineties. Nobody bothered much about them. They ramped by themselves in the "jungle" across the railroad track.

But it's different now. Something has happened. Sometimes I wonder if about 50 per cent of this nation isn't going hobo! For you'll find tramps everywhere. Not just ramping in jungles or hoofing it across the highway. Like as not, they're living in the next apartment . . . working at the next counter.

Not as ragged as the old tramps used to be, not as dirty. Sometimes indeed, very smartly dressed and groomed. But scratch the surface and you'll find the tramp.

A person who didn't care . . . who didn't care to make a home or start a business . . . who didn't pay taxes or rent . . . who didn't bother about what people thought or said . . . who just wanted to be free and happy n' keep moving . . . that was a tramp.

People who are always "just getting by" . . . living from hand to mouth . . . dodging rentals, ducking bills, moving along.

People without roots or standards.

Tramps. Frequently charming, merry, fascinating tramps . . . but tramps nevertheless . . . AND AS POTENTIALLY DANGEROUS AS ANY RAGGED HOBO THAT EVER BEDDED DOWN UNDER THE RAILROAD BRIDGE.

You never can tell what people like that will do . . . FOR THEY NEVER CAN TELL THEMSELVES. They'll do what seems convenient and expedient. They don't INTEND or PLAN to be bad . . . but neither have they any definite intention to be good. They're opportunists, fitting into any situation, thinking of themselves first in any emergency. And if that emergency happens to involve your life, happiness or pocketbook . . . why it's just your bad luck.

Tramps—drifters, that won't work or fight for the things that you and I work and fight for—that don't believe the things that you and I believe. That don't care for anything or anybody, as long as they can keep moving.

They're a menace! They're a worse menace than our actual criminals . . . our defectives, degenerates, alien enemies. For we can detect a criminal and segregate a defective.
